

Vicious Circle of Textile and Cotton Slump Baffles Administration

WASHINGTON—Next to the precarious reign of King Cotton, probably nothing is worrying the Administration right now as much as the ever weakening pulse of that interdependent industry—textiles.

The two industries—chief economic backbone of New England and the South—go hand in hand. Textiles are suffering in part from the uncertainty of cotton.

This is one ill which White House advisers may attempt to remedy immediately.

For weeks, mill after mill has been closing in New England. The epidemic is now spreading through the South. One factor is the fear that raw cotton will slump in price. That fear causes textile wholesalers to hold back their orders. This in turn causes textile mills to close their doors.

All are waiting for a stabilized price of cotton. That in turn depends on whether Secretary Henry Wallace will once again set a loan price of 12 cents a pound on all cotton.

Due to price-setting last year, the United States Government is the biggest holder of cotton in the world today. The chances are that if Wallace succumbs to the tremendous pressure now hammering at him, and fixes the same loan price, Uncle Sam will increase his holdings further.

This, in turn, depresses the market. Textile wholesalers and manufacturers, in turn, get uneasy wanting to know what is going to happen. It is a vicious circle not dissimilar to Hoover's purchase of wheat which drove the price of wheat lower and lower.

This is only part of what is worrying Administration master-minds regarding textiles.

Another thing is the high price of textiles. Manufacturers lay this entirely to the processing tax. Administration experts say this accounts for only part. They claim there is also an increase for which the manufacturer is responsible.

At any rate, prices of textiles have now zoomed out of all proportion to the income of labor. This is what has caused the influx of Japanese goods. Importation of them jumped from 7,000,000 yards during the entire year of 1934 to 21,000,000 yards during the single month of January, 1935.

This probably will be barred by tariff increases.

But the basic problem in the textile-cotton industry is harder. Some New Deal advisers privately think that without serious economic readjustments it is unsolvable.

Dickinson and Dickinson

The principal address of the inaugural celebration at Dickinson College last week was given by white-haired Senator Dickinson.

The matter of names was a mere coincidence. The Iowa Senator had had no previous connection with the Pennsylvania college.

This is how he came to be chosen:

A delegation of students came to Washington two weeks ago, bent on securing a speaker. Starting high, they tried the White House, but Marvin McIntyre shook his head. They next approached Senator Borah, with no more success. Pat Hurley, in his turn, resisted the appeal of a brother in Sigma Chi, and said he was booked up.

By now the day was wearing on. They had to get someone. They went to the Capitol and asked advice of Frank Boal, secretary to Pennsylvania's Senator Davis.

Boal had just been talking with Dickinson on the floor of the Senate. The coincidence of the name—Senator Dickinson and Dickinson College—struck him. "Why not get Senator Dickinson?" he suggested.

YOUNG KILLER, FOUR OTHERS DIE IN 'CHAIR'

Raymond Hamilton, Southwest Desperado, is Pallid but Composed

BUDDIES EXECUTED

Three Die in Joliet for Bank Murders

By International News Service
Five convicted murderers, one of them Raymond Hamilton, desperado terror of the southwest, calmly went to their deaths today in the electric chairs at Huntsville, Tex., and Joliet, Ill., penitentiaries.

Accompanying Hamilton to the Texas electric chair was Joe Palmer, his companion in a Texas prison farm escape that cost the life of a young guard.

At the old Illinois penitentiary three bank bandits, charged with murdering three men, were executed.

Hamilton, pale of face but composed, said his last farewell in the death chamber and was bolted into eternity a few minutes after midnight.

Hamilton's show of bravado left him earlier last night when word was brought to the death cell that Gov. James Allred had refused to grant clemency and the court of appeals had turned down a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

The once-swaggering outlaw, who had boasted he would return and "haunt" his prosecutors, turned ashen and he trembled visibly. As the hour of execution drew nearer, however, the desperado regained a degree of composure.

The double execution ended one of the most sensational crime chapters in the history of the southwest. A daring series of robberies, abductions and gun battles with posses had given the 21-year-old Hamilton a ranking as Public Enemy No. 1 in recent months.

Hamilton and his gunman ally were executed for the murder of Major Crowson, a young prison guard, on Jan. 16, 1934. The two engineered two of the most daring prison breaks ever made in Texas. Crowson was shot down when Hamilton and Palmer, aided by the late Clyde Barrow and his cigar-smoking sweetheart, Bonnie Parker, led a break from the East-ham prison farm.

Barrow and the Parker woman later were ambushed in Louisiana.

Slew Cashier, Others

Convicted of killing J. Charles Bundy, cashier, and two others in a raid on the state bank of Leonore, Ill., Fred Gerner, John Hauff and Arthur Thiele were put to death. Gerner and Thiele, both of Rockford, Ill., were brothers-in-law.

BACKS CONSERVANCY

CHILLICOTHE, May 10—The Ross-co Automobile club has voted its endorsement of the Scioto-Sandusky conservancy program.

DIME LETTER CRAZE RETURNS GIRL LOST 19 YEARS TO MOTHER

MEDFORD Ore., May 10—The chain letter craze was credited with returning a long lost daughter to her mother here today.

After a search for nineteen years, Mrs. Marie McDaniel, Medford, picked up a "send-a-dime" chain letter sent her by friends in Los Angeles and saw a name similar to that of her daughter listed among those hoping to receive a shower of dimes.

Mrs. McDaniel immediately sent a telegram to Ruth McDaniel, Santa Monica, Cal. After an exchange of wires, the girl's identity was established and she rushed to Medford for a reunion with her mother.

Mrs. McDaniel said she lost trace of Ruth 19 years ago when she left her baby girl with relatives in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Dies for Crimes

Raymond Hamilton

Hamilton, youthful terror of the southwest, paid for his crime life Thursday night when his life was snuffed out in the electric chair. At the same time, Hamilton's buddies and three Illinois bandits were executed for murder.

LUTZ JAILED FOR FORGERY

Local Man Pleads Guilty to Signing Father's Name; Held Under Bond

Ralph Lutz, 25, of W. High-st., was held in the county jail Friday under $2,000 bond after pleading guilty to forgery of his father's name to several checks. His hearing was in Mayor W. B. Cady's court after he was arrested Thursday evening by Officer Alva Shasteen.

The charge was filed against Lutz by Gaylord Phillips, operator of the Scioto Grill. It is reported there are several other checks out against Lutz.

WATERWORKS JOB NEARLY COMPLETE

Last Installation Made At Property of Dr. Schiff; to Clear Streets

ASHVILLE, May 10—The two hundred and thirtieth water installation was made by E. C. Bartling & Son, waterworks contractors, this week for Dr. L. C. Schiff on E. Main-st on the site of his proposed new residence to be erected this summer. This practically completed the waterworks project, ground for which was broken on Long-st at Cherry-st, Oct. 18, 1934.

There yet remains some clean-up work on the streets as the trenches will be flooded and filled up and the roadway made passable and then it is the plan of the Trustees of Public Affairs to take over the future final street repairs when they are ready to be made, except the brick portion of Main-st which repair work will be made by the contractors.

The work taken over by the village will be done under direction of the street commissioner with possibly public funds and by Asheville labor. It is anticipated a considerable sum can thus be saved.

MISS SCHLEYER BITTEN BY DOG

Miss Anna Schleyer, S. Scioto-st., was treated by a physician Thursday afternoon after she was bitten by a chow dog at Mound and Scioto-sts.

The dog is the property of C. H. Hickey, W. Mound-st.

LEGISLATORS FORCE ACTION IN LAST WEEK

Senate to Consider School Bill Day Before Adjournment Date

MILK CONTROL UP

Appropriation Bill, Pensions Force Action

COLUMBUS, May 10—The Ohio senate will consider the Traxler-Kiefer public school foundation program bill and other school legislation next Wednesday, the day before scheduled sine die adjournment. Majority Floor Leader Paul Yoder (D), Dayton, announced today.

COLUMBUS, May 10—With the most important business of the entire session put off until the eleventh hour, Ohio house and senate leaders agreed today that only outstanding measures will receive attention before sine die adjournment scheduled for next Thursday.

Money Bill Problem

Two matters of paramount importance headed the agenda, followed by a dozen other major bills. The assembly cannot adjourn without passing the $53,000,000 biennial appropriations bill which to date has not even been reported.

SENATE GETS BANKING BILL

House Gives Eccles' Measure Nice Vote; Glass Seen As Leading Foe

WASHINGTON, May 10—The administration's banking bill, which would put the vast federal reserve system under government control, faced a vigorous onslaught in the senate today after passing the house by a vote of 271 to 110.

Its foes look to Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, leading critic of the Roosevelt money policies, to halt the bill. It would drastically revise the federal reserve law of which Glass is co-author.

The measure—described by many as the most important banking law since passage of the original federal reserve law in the Wilson administration—is said by experts to take a long step toward establishing a central banking system.

The senate battle may be a test of strength between youthful Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, and elderly Glass. Eccles sponsored the measure.

ANOTHER HALF INCH OF RAIN RECORDED

Another half inch was added Thursday afternoon and evening to May's amazing total. To be exact the rainfall was a little short of a half inch being .45, according to Dr. H. R. Clarke's indicator.

The river had dropped to the 9.5-foot stage today.

COLORED MAN DIES

Henry Barnes, colored, was found dead in bed early Friday at the home of George Beatty, Island-rd., where he had been living several weeks.

Garnes is believed a former resident of Gallia-co.

Funeral arrangements in charge of M. S. Rinehart have not been completed.

MELL VOTES FOR BANKING MEASURE

Mell G. Underwood, New Lexington, supported the administration's banking bill which passed the house of representatives 271 to 110 Thursday.

Underwood represents the 11th Ohio district which includes Pickaway-co.

All six Republicans in the Ohio delegation and three Democrats, Duffey of Toledo, Trux of Bucyrus and Felsing of Sandusky opposed the bill.

SCHOOLS' MAY DAY FETE PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

The May Day festivities of the local schools, Thursday afternoon, the first ever held on the high school athletic field, were very picturesque and outstanding.

The program was postponed from Wednesday, May 1, because of rain.

A large crowd of parents, friends and pupils witnessed the affair. The crowning of Miss Dorothy Fohl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fohl, N. Pickaway-st., a senior in the high school, as May Queen was the feature of the ceremonies.

The festivities began when Mrs. Ray Davis, music supervisor, who was in charge of the celebration, sounded a whistle. The march to the throne by the May queen and her court of honor was made from the rear of the high school building down the north side of the campus to the beautifully decorated throne in the southeast corner.

Flowers Bank Throne

The back of the throne was banked with vari-colored spring flowers and artificial grass covered the steps which led to the queen's white chair decorated with flowers. Raymond Hill and Gaylord Greenlee were the queen's heralds and blew trumpets before the ceremony, dances and track events.

Miss Fohl, an attractive blond, was pretty in a long white organ-dress and was preceded to the throne by her court of honor, the attendants marching in pairs. Ann Vierebome and Mary Ann Sapp attired in long pink dresses were first in the line followed by Mary Newmyer and Betty Lee Nickerson in blue; Rosemary Hammel

46 PLANES UNREPORTED

Believed to Have Landed On Islands In 1,300 Mile Flight to Midway

HONOLULU, T. H., May 10—Rigid "wartime" secrecy today hid the whereabouts of the aerial armada of 46 United States navy fighting planes that winged westward from here more than twenty hours ago, supposedly bound for Midway island, in an integral move in the navy's vast secret war game being played in mid-Pacific.

From authoritative unofficial sources, it was learned the planes at dawn today had not yet arrived at Midway.

Reports of bad weather in the vicinity of isolated Midway island caused the 46 planes to halt their massed flight, it was reported.

The fliers descended at or near French Frigate shoals, five hundred miles northwest of Honolulu, it was believed.

The fliers are familiar with the shoals, it was pointed out, having covered their vicinity in previous massed flights from Pearl Harbor base.

From the same unofficial source, it was reported that Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, was at Midway aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, awaiting the result of the unprecedented 1,300-mile massed flight.

BANDITS SHOT IN PAYROLL HOLD-UP

CLEVELAND, May 10—Single-handed, an East Cleveland man returning from a bank after cashing a number of payroll checks for friends, today put to rout a gang of four alleged bandits.

He shot down two of the men, and put the others to flight. The victims were taken to City Hospital, where the condition of one, whose name was given as John Simone, 25, was reported as critical.

The other, who police said was Tony Prinelli, 25, was less seriously wounded, according to hospital attaches.

CHARGE GERMANY AIDS ABYSSINIA

ROME, May 10—The influential newspaper Giornale D'Italia today charged Germany has supplied Abyssinia with much war material to fortify her in her quarrel with Italy.

Modern chemicals, rifles, machine-guns, anti-aircraft guns, armored cars, and airplanes all have been shipped to Abyssinia lately from Germany, the paper said.

FATE OF LAMSON IS NEARING JURY

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 10—Within 24 hours, David A. Lamson, Stanford university press executive, may know his fate.

The middle-aged jury of eight men and four women—which is to determine whether Lamson killed his attractive wife Alice, may be charged with the duty of finding a verdict this evening should Prosecutor Allan P. Lindsay finish his final argument this afternoon. It was announced by Superior Judge R. R. Syer.

Lindsay, in the midst of a tirade against defense scientific witnesses, said he may take the entire day, however, to complete his summation.

ALTAR SOCIETY TO MEET

Members of the Altar society of St. Joseph's church will meet at 7:30 p. m. Friday at the home of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Voll, 119 S. Washington-st.

CHAIN LETTERS BRING CHARGE

Three Denver men were arrested on charges of using the mails to defraud as the federal government cracked down on alleged chain-letter racketeering. Seizure of 1,200 of the "send a dollar" type letters resulted in charges against H. S. Harris, left mining promoter; R. M. Barnholt right, president of an oil company, and Edward W. Hughes, packing company employee. The men are alleged to have placed names of themselves and relatives on the letters in a way that made them chief beneficiaries.

JUDGE NAMED LIQUOR CHIEF

J. W. Miller of Bucyrus Succeeds Burk, Who Is Expected to Be Supervisor

COLUMBUS, May 10—Probate Judge J. W. Miller of Bucyrus today was appointed state liquor director by Gov. Martin L. Davey. He succeeded Clarence H. Burk, New London, whose resignation becomes effective at the close of business tomorrow.

Born in Bucyrus 57 years ago, Judge Miller was graduated from Bucyrus high school and the college of law at Ohio State university. He was admitted to the bar in 1901.

Judge Miller was elected secretary of the Bucyrus Loan and Building company in 1905, serving until 1929. He was elected Bucyrus city solicitor in 1923 and re-elected in 1925 and 1927. While he was solicitor he instituted the Logan Gas company, rate case recently decided by the utilities commission.

First elected probate judge of Crawford-co in 1928, Judge Miller was re-elected in 1932 without opposition either in the primary or the general election. He was the original Davey-for-governor man in Crawford-co. He is married and has three daughters.

The governor did not disclose whether he plans to transfer Burk to another post, although it has been persistently rumored that he will name the Port Clinton man, to the position of state supervisor of liquor stores.

Frank Taylor, present supervisor, has resigned effective May 15. Salary of the liquor director is $6,500 a year, while the state supervisor of stores is paid $5,000 annually.

AT CONFERENCE

Earl Scott, 313 E. Mound-st., was admitted to Berger hospital, Thursday, for treatment.

Louis Warner, of Wellston, underwent a cataract operation at Berger hospital, Friday morning, performed by Dr. C. G. Stewart.

VETERANS ASK FDR APPROVAL

Flood of Telegrams Sent to White House Urging Support of Patman Bill

WASHINGTON, May 10—The appeal by veterans' organizations for a telegraphic barrage of appeal for presidential approval of the Patman soldiers' bonus payment bill began to show results today as more than 5,000 telegrams were received at the White House.

Officials said none of the messages had been read as yet, but it was presumed that the great majority asked President Roosevelt to sign the bill which provides for immediate payment of the $2,000,000,000 veterans' adjusted service certificates in greenbacks.

NEW SHOE FIRM TO LOCATE HERE

The Merit Shoe Co., a branch of the Endicott-Johnson Co., has leased the rooms on W. Main-st. now occupied by the Moore Shoe Co. and the Green Lantern restaurant, the Circle Realty Co. announced today.

The new company will probably open for business about July 1 with the building, main floor and basement, to be completely remodeled.

Three other local youths, Maynard Keaton, Harold Rambo and Harold Smith are being held for investigation.

CITY OFFICIALS AIR DEBT WITH UTILITY CHIEFS

Mayor, Two Councilmen Attend Confab in Water Company's Offices

MEETING IS ASKED

Utility Would Accept 10-Year Contract

Officials of the Ohio Water Service Co., who Thursday started an action in the utilities commission seeking permission to discontinue furnishing water for fire protection, met with city officials Thursday afternoon in the company's office, W. Main-st., to discuss the city's indebtedness amounting to nearly $13,000.

The amount is the entirety of a back bill, the city now paying its rent monthly for fire hydrants.

In the conference were C. van den Berg, Jr., president of the utility; G. Taylor Evans, another water company official; W. B. Cady, mayor; John C. Goeller, president of council, and Ben H. Gordon, chairman of the council finance committee.

Want Bill Paid

The utility officials, who last week filed bankruptcy proceedings in federal court, Cleveland, are trying to clear up the city's debt for hydrant rental in any legal manner. "The money can come from the general fund, through a bond issue or any other way," Mr. van den Berg said, "just so we get it cleaned up."

Mr. van den Berg was for an immediate meeting with council to discuss ways and means but President Goeller vetoed this move since the council by next Wednesday will know no more about its finances than it does now. Mr. Goeller suggested that Mr. Gordon learn as much as possible about the tax distribution, when it will be made and how much it will amount to then report to council next week just where the city stands and how much it would be able to pay the utility.

Mr. van den Berg suggested in a discussion prior to his meeting with the officials that the utility would be willing to accept a 10-year contract with the city on the rate paid by consumers at a sufficient increase to wipe out the $13,000 debt in that period of years. It is believed council would lend an unwilling ear to such a suggestion.

President Goeller declared that he believed the proceeding to cease fire protection service was just an effort to "force payment of the debt." Mr. van den Berg objected to the word "force."

Hearing is June 11

The hearing on the application is scheduled for June 11 at 10 a. m. before the commission.

Other cities affected by the utility's action include Massillon, Washington C. H. and Marysville. The total amount owed the utility for fire protection is in the neighborhood of $200,000, the company president disclosed. Massillon owes more than $100,000.

The meat of the petition is found in the fourth paragraph of the application in the utilities commission. It reads:

If your petitioner be relieved of the necessity of furnishing water service for fire protection for said municipalities it will be enabled to reduce its pumping service from 24 hours per day to approximately eight hours per day and thereby greatly reduce its operating expense."

Just when the water officials and council as a whole will meet is not certain.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Nau, 944 S. Pickaway-st., announce the birth of a daughter, Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Nau's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Noggle, 344 Walnut-st. Mrs. Nau was Miss Agnes Noggle before her marriage.

MEN ASSUME OBLIGATIONS FOR CHURCH

Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood to Finish Projects; Program Entertaining

The meeting of Trinity Lutheran brotherhood held in the parish house Thursday evening, was replete with interest.

During the business session, the revised constitution and by-laws were given the third and final reading and were adopted as revised.

Donations Taken

Cash and labor donations were taken at the close of the meeting and the work of construction will soon be started.

G. J. Lampl in charge of the entertainment next introduced his Fred Allen radio programs.

A deviation from the usual procedure was in introducing Charles

L. Mack as Fred Allen No. 1 and Carl C. Leist as his shadow.

Mr. Mack well played his part and was responsible for the Town Hall News. Carl Palm well played the part of Portland and Ervin F. Leist at Portland's brother looked and acted the part as only he alone could act it.

Elzie Radcliffe was next introduced as the guest vocalist, singing "O Little Mother of Mine", responding to a liberal encore by rendering "The Last Round-Up."

The amateur night weekly feature of the program was next introduced; and after much jest on the part of Fred Allen, L. V. Martin was first named, and rendered two violin solos; "Golden Slippers" and "Lop Eared Mule". Carl Palm playing the piano accompaniment.

Frank Palm's stunt on the program went "haywire," owing to the fact that his co-worker, a dashund borrowed from "Briar Town" made a mad dash, taking with him his leash and a greater part of the rear screen door of the parish house. Mr. Palm got the "gong" early in the game.

Mack Given Gong

Charles L. Mack was the next amateur performer presented, playing bones and jews-harp. He, too, got the "gong".

Carl C. Leist gave a musical reading entitled "The Usual Way", delighting the audience.

Mr. Radcliffe was again presented and sang "Play to Me Gypsy".

James Wallington's part in the entertainment was ably handled by Cyril H. Palm. The Johns—"Nashville" applausemeter was quite uncertain as to results, running backward on numerous occasions. Up on the final try-out the first prize was awarded to L. V. Martin, the second going to Carl C. Leist.

The program was brought to a fitting close by the entire company singing "Smiles".

The next regular session will be held on Thursday evening, June 6th with C. C. Schwarz as program chairman, his company being all members whose names begin with letters "S" to "Z" inclusive.

Frank H. Palm will act as chairman of the lunch committee.

Commercial vegetable growers claim good plants are too important a part of their business to trust to someone else. "Growing Vegetable Plants" is the title of an agricultural extension bulletin that can be secured from county agents' offices.

Mothers' Day Honors for Zoo Keeper

Twenty-Five Hundred Animals Are Woman's Charges—and She Tames the Wildest With Kindness Where Others Fail

Mrs. Belle Benchley, San Diego zoo keeper.

Mrs. Benchley kissing Mickey Tapir.

Six helpers, including a chimpanzee, tamed a ferocious chimpanzee that escaped from the zoo until Mrs. Benchley took the frightened beast by the hand and led it back to its cage.

By OREN ORNOLD

Central Press Correspondent SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Mother's day honors for one of the strangest "mothers" in all America will be paid here this year to Mrs. Belle Benchley. This year she rounds out a full decade of "mothering" 2,500 wild and often dangerous animals—the only woman zoo keeper in the world. She bosses the San Diego zoo.

If the dumb beasts themselves could voice their sentiments, Mother Benchley would be honored indeed. She has proved that kindness and gentleness in dealing with "wild" animals brings response in kind. Mrs. Benchley can do with her wildest "children" what none of her two dozen or so male assistants can do.

Six of her helpers once fought a ferocious chimpanzee that had escaped from her municipal zoo, wielding clubs for nearly half an hour. Mother Benchley saw it, and came a-trotting. "Tck-tck-tck!" she clucked a reprimand at the men, then took the snarling, frightened beast by the hand and led it back into its cage as if it were a little child. During the past winter, which has been marked by some cold snaps and damp spells, some of Mother Benchley's children required special attention. As in any family, sore throats and other ailments develop. But mother knows what to do.

Speed, the great Galapagos tortoise who was a youngster back in the days of George Washington and before, once became ill with a sore throat. Mother rubbed his wrinkled old adam's apple with castor oil, and he recovered. Harmless as a kitten, he follows Mother Benchley around begging for tidbits of food.

Brings Baby Kangaroo Around

A baby kangaroo in her zoo became ill one time, and, its own mother kicked it out of its marsupial pouch. It would surely have died. But Mrs. Benchley put it into a big clothes basket with blankets and a hot water bottle and nursed it back to health. Everywhere the zoo keeper went for nearly a month—downtown shopping, visiting to neighbors, everywhere—she carried the Australian baby along in his hamper, just as she might have carried her own son.

Mickey tapir, a peculiar half-ton beast with a nose that suggests both elephant and hog, has Mother Benchley's personal attention every day. Mother Benchley cooks Mickey's breakfast (a bushel or so of potatoes, and some cereal) and serves it daily, allowing no assistant to aid her. She and Mickey are personal friends.

When Maggie and Jiggs, the loving, happy orang-outang honey-mooners in her zoo, become angry or upset, Mother Benchley steps into the cage to settle family quarrels.

All day every day it's something like that. The zebras, the penquins, the gorillas, the sea lions, the birds, the snakes, all have a problem that requires tact and strength. Mrs. Benchley supplies both, has done so admirably since stepping into the zoo keeper's job "temporarily," ten years ago. It is high time, the San Diegans say, that due Mothers' day honors be paid to her.

U. B. SERVICES NEAR CLIMAX

The revival which has been in progress in the United Brethren Church for the past two weeks is fast reaching a climax. This is expected Sunday which will be the last day of the campaign. On this day the evangelist, The Rev. Dewey Whitwell, of Nashville, Tenn., will speak four times. At 9:30 a. m. he will address the children of the church. At 10:30 a. m. he will deliver a message on "Mother and Her Task." A congregation of young people will hear him at 6:30 p. m. on the subject of "Playing the Game Fair." His final message will come at 7:30 p. m.

A large audience came out through the inclement weather last night to hear the message on Bobbed Hair Religion. Tonight will be Family night. The evangelist will give a souvenir to the largest family present. He is permitting the family to count the relatives. His subject will be, "What Has Happened to the American Home?"

There will be services Saturday night. The Evangelistic club of Lancaster will attend Saturday night and furnish special music. The subject will be "The Second Coming of Christ."

Three Young Men

Only time will tell whether the recent conference here of left-wingers carried the germ of a serious third party threat.

No one was more uncertain about the future political significance of their movement than the aggregation of Wisconsin Progressives, Farmer - Laborites, Farm Holidayers, Technocrats, Utopians and so forth who made up the gathering.

On two matters, however, they were agreed: 1. That there is a sound economic and political basis for a left-wing party. 2. That another meeting should be held to explore further the possibilities of organizing such a movement.

The date and place for this second conference was fixed tentatively in the latter part of June in Chicago.

While in itself the meeting was of nebulous importance, there was one fact about it that was significant. That was that none of the recognized liberal leaders had a hand in its call or attended the deliberations.

Senators L. F. Follette, Norris, Nye, Frazier, Shipstead, Wheeler were asked to join the movement, but all shied off. It was three young men, little known outside of their own circles, who were the "brains" behind the gathering. They are:

Representative Tom Amlie, the real organizer of the Wisconsin Progressive Party. After last year's smashing victory at the polls the two

La Follette brothers were widely acclaimed for political daring. But it was the tall, blond, spectacular former farm-hand who conceived and forced through their belt from the Republican Party. Alfred Bingham, tall, radical son of erudite Hiram Bingham, one-time ultra-conservative Senator from Connecticut. As editor of Common Sense, Alfred for more than a year has been vigorously agitating the coalescing of left-wing elements into an independent political party.

Representative Vito Marcantonio, short, dynamic inheritor of the seat once held by Mayor LaGuardia. Although nominally a Republican, Marcantonio has advanced economic and social views that place him far to the left of even the liberals.

MARYSVILLE, May 10—James G. Heigler, 27, farmer, pleaded guilty to a grand jury indictment charging bigamy today and sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for one to seven years.

Officers Named by Business Women; Miss Briner Honored

Miss Charlotte Phelps is the new president of the local Business and Professional Women's club succeeding Miss Charlotte McEwing. The election took place at the club's annual meeting, Thursday evening, in the club rooms following a 6:30 o'clock dinner.

Other officers named included:

Mrs. William E. Fitzpatrick, vice president; Miss Mary Ebert, recording secretary; Miss Mary Howard, treasurer, and Miss Hilda Burns corresponding secretary.

Delegates and alternates to the spring meeting of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women to be held in Cincinnati May 24, 25 and 26 were also named at this time. Miss Phelps, Miss McEwing and Miss Clara Southward are delegates and alternates include Miss Elma Rains, Miss Mary Wilder and Mrs. H. G. Stevenson.

The dinner preceding the business session was a lovely affair. Bowls of spring flowers were attractive centerpieces for the properly appointed tables.

Miss Marie Briner, valedictorian of this year's graduating class of the high school, was guest of honor.

One of the objects of the Business and Professional Women's club is to see that every girl receives at least a high school education, therefore the local club has followed the high school career of Miss Briner with great interest and in recognition of her attainment complimented her at the club dinner. Miss Briner's mother and sister, Mrs. Frank Briner and Miss Edna Briner were also guests of the club.

Camisole Top of Lace

The camisole top for a silk dress is a high fashion note. This tulip print has one of black silk lace. The matching silk sheer jacket makes this frock an attractive street ensemble. The veil is worn at the back of the hat.

WASHINGTON-TWP SENIORS TO PRESENT PLAY MAY 14

The senior class of the Washington-twp school will present its play, "Two Days to Marry" by Walter Richardson, Tuesday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The production is being directed by A. Wendell Boyer.

Characters include Grover Dresbach as Simon P. Chase; Earl Crist as James B. Dare; Maynard Matz, Ruford B. Sawyer; Lucille Schreck, Emily Jane Pink; Martha Hitler, Sadie L. Boise; Olive Hartley, Imogene McShane; Russell Waldeich, Walter M. Blair.

The story is based on the will of the father of James J. Dare, which states that James must be married before he is 28 years old. The plot is strengthened by the action of Dare's butler and lawyer and is later complicated by the subplot, which has as its purpose the fooling of Walter B. Blair, who is Dare's uncle and administrator of the will.

Baccalaureate service will be held at the school at 8 p. m. Sunday, Rev. C. L. Thomas, of East Ringgold, will preach the sermon.

LADIES' AID MEETS WITH MRS. KRIMMEL

The May meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Christ Lutheran church was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Krimmel of Jackson-twp with her daughter, Miss Bertha, as assisting hostess.

Fifty members and guests enjoyed the meeting which was opened with a devotional service led by Rev. G. L. Troutman, who also conducted the business session.

Three readings were given. The first by Mrs. Van Meter Hulse, the second, "When You Need a Friend" by Mrs. Marvin Rhoades, and "Mother Love" by Miss Ethel Kern.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Household Arts

With June weddings not so far off, the bride-to-be who wants distinctive monogramming will welcome these lovely alphabets. And so will the bride of many a year, for there are always linens to be marked. You can do the letters in outwork, in satin stitch or in darning stitch. You can use white or one color, two shades of one color or black and a color. The letters are all simple to do conforming to the modern taste. Since there are three sized alphabets in the pattern they can be arranged to form striking monograms.

In pattern 5443 you will find a transfer pattern of five complete alphabets, one 2 inch, two 1 1/2 inch and two 5/8 inch; information on correct placing of letters and monograms; illustrations of all stitches needed.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main St. Circleville, O.

CASE NUMBER 2,796

It might be possible for the imaginative to attach a certain symbolic significance to the coming heavyweight championship bout in Long Island Bowl on June 13, when a product of the depression makes his bid for fame and fortune against a rather redoubtable opponent, Maxie Baer.

The challenger is listed on the records of the government relief agency of North Berger as Case Number 2,796, known to his wife and friends as James J. Braddock, a well-muscled young American, who has been in training with that grim and merciless opponent, Poverty.

Young Mr. Braddock, the missus and three children were having quite a difficult time of it. There was no job, no food for the family or money for the rent and a knockout was in sight until the relief agency intervened. For several months the young man wielded an axe and spade in the park, growing hard as nails and lean as a greyhound.

Then he entered the ring with Art Lasky, pounded out a decision and won the right to meet the current champion, the amiably vicious Mr. Baer, who has a high estimate of his own prowess which is not without substantial basis.

Somehow, if Braddock should win, those of us who are constantly on the lookout for signs and portents of better times would feel that the conquest, achieved by one of the depression's own young men, could properly be accepted as an omen of a new and a brighter day.

ONE IN EVERY 400

IF YOU would proke your life, go inside the house and stay inside after 5 o'clock every afternoon. Particularly, do not venture to drive your automobile between the hours of 5 and midnight, and if you are not a driver, do not cross between those hours. Thus you will greatly increase your chances of living until 1936, or longer, for during 1935 one in every 100 motorists will be injured, one in every 400 pedestrians will be hurt, one in every 3500 motorists will be killed and one in every 8000 pedestrians will go to his grave. Half of these accidents will occur between the hours of 5 P. M. and midnight.

These figures appear from the surveys of automobile accidents made by the National Safety Council. They should be warning to every person who uses the streets, and particularly to every motorist. If any reader doubts their accuracy he may be convinced if he will check the long roll of accidents which will, inevitably, be printed in any Monday morning newspaper. Holiday week-ends are notorious for their accidents on the highways.

One in every 400 automobiles on the roads this week-end will be involved in an accident. It is no longer a question of how many, but rather it has become a question of which one.

LLOYD'S ON WAR

OUT of the welter of fact and theory, information and misinformation about the possibility of an early war in Europe there has emerged one certainty: There will be no war within a twelve-month. How do we know so much? We don't; we take our cue from Lloyd's, the English insurance agency which will insure anybody against anything, and it has offered odds of twenty to one against conflict within the year, and that settles it.

Moreover, but less important, the view reflected in the bet is that of observers in general. They know that Germany, regarded as the present-day menace to peace, is far from ready for hostilities. It is one thing to put 500,000 young men in uniform; it is another to build up an adequate store of the vast variety of material things needed in the prosecution of war on a modern scale. Germany does not yet possess such supplies. Nor is she likely to go to war at a time when the rest of Europe is in a state of approaching harmony among nations. So if Germany are again drinking toasts to Der Tag, it is a day which to a moral certainty will not fall within the coming year.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

County Treasurer Thomas Barr, 57, died at his home in Tarleton. He had served only four months of his first term as treasurer.

Soloists outside of Commercial Point and the Orient institute for the feeble minded, had a population of 1,371, according to census reports. In the enumeration there were 196 farms listed.

The annual mothers' and daughters' banquet, sponsored by the young women's Bible class, was held at the M. E. Church with 75 in attendance. Mrs. E. I. Gephart, class president, was in charge of the program.

15 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Sarah Lillian Thorne, 87, died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Denny Pickens, the effects of a fall at her home a week previous. She was a native of Deercreek-twp.

Interesting and instructive talks on the subject, "Snags I

Have Struck in My Business," were made by John Goeller, Sr., Charles Mack, W. E. Crist, H. S. Hiffner and Ed Sensenbrenner at a meeting of the Lutheran Brotherhood.

The Methodist Men's club held an enjoyable session and four of its prominent members—George Littleton, C. D. Closson, R. A. Pales and Clark Will—were tried on charges of illegal voting at the Brotherhood election. The jury found the defendants (and their lawyers) guilty, and fixed drastic penalties.

25 YEARS AGO

G. P. Hunsicker, of Williamsport, bought a new E. M. F. touring car from the Spangler Automobile Co. Louis Dresbach purchased a Flanders 20 from the same firm.

Fred L. Pickardt returned from a trip to California where he visited his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Wolfley, in Los Angeles, and other former Circleville residents in various parts of the state.

Quite a number of Pickaway-co people had a view of Halley's comet. It could be seen in the east shortly before 3 o'clock each morning.

THE GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

McDONALD FEADER

CHAPTER 35

THE GIRL stood in the lobby staring around her as if she had never seen it before. She fingered the soft silken covering of one of the chairs. She buried her feet in the deep nap of the rug. She stared at the dimly lighted oil paintings on the wall, at each sign of luxury in the room, and the thought came to her how many times she had rushed through to her limousine with never a glance at the beauty of the furnishings of this place. Exclusive, expensive apartments, with here the most expensive, the penthouse on the top—and she sighed.

Memories flooded over her. It was right after she had become star of the Follies that Stewart had brought her here. Star of the Follies, and suddenly it came to her what she was doing—Lord in heaven, tonight, tonight since it was morning already, the curtain would go up without her. Ah, no—they couldn't do that! The Follies without the gypsy dancer? No, no! Was she mad to be thinking of running away if I trot along with you and if things don't go right I'll step in, sock the old man for a loop and we'll dash out and away. What say, baby?

She laughed softly and patted his hand. "Darling, my little darling, papa would—but she changed the words and a fierce intensity entered into her voice. 'Now, I would rather have his whiplash unleashed upon my body than—'

"—than a thousand kisses from me?" He grinned. "I'll bear up. There's only one satisfaction in this business and that will be my great delight in gently breaking the news to Stewart in the morning. Any particular message, or shall I use my own words?"

She shook her head. "We have said so much—there can be nothing left to say."

"Correct—I get you. And Goldie, our mutual friend Mr. Goldberg, how shall I soothe him for your walking out on your contract?"

"That fat toad—ah, but he was harmless—like a toad, yes, always chirping. Look what I have done for you! Bah, he could not have done anything without me. It was I who made his Follies. It is I who am the gypsy dancer of Broadway. I ute to lose if we want to catch that train." Doug grabbed her arm and with his other hand picking up the bundle.

Together the two of them raced out the door and across the walk to the cab. "Pennsylvania station, and make it snappy," ordered Doug breathlessly, as the two got in and slammed the door behind them. "What a tough old guy he was. Luckily he knew me. You'd think I was a thief." He chuckled. "Baby, it cost me your second best diamond wrist watch to get the loan of a measly two hundred dollars out of the old geezer. Say, I bought that very watch at Tiffany's on Stewart's account for seven fifty, and the old mutt thinks he's been cheated and only forked over the money on account of Stewart." He yelled: "Hurry up." to the driver and squeezed Consuelo's arm. "Gosh, I'm going to miss you. You know, baby, I think I ought to come along. Listen, I'm not so not about this probable beating episode from your old man. How about it, if I trot along with you and if things don't go right I'll step in, sock the old man for a loop and we'll dash out and away. What say, baby?"

She laughed softly and patted his hand. "Darling, my little darling, papa would—but she changed the words and a fierce intensity entered into her voice. 'Now, I would rather have his whiplash unleashed upon my body than—' last trump shall sound the better. Her ways are ways of wickedness and she comes of a stiff-necked generation.

"—than a thousand kisses from me?" He grinned. "I'll bear up. There's only one satisfaction in this business and that will be my great delight in gently breaking the news to Stewart in the morning. Any particular message, or shall I use my own words?"

All hail, however, to the hen that lays eggs weighing 23 ounces a dozen, or even heavier. She is no individualist, but rather a compliant New Dealer. She knows the code and obeys it. She approves of the AAA and all its ways. She takes her code liver oil without a cackle, and rejoices in ultra-violet rays because they help her carry out the will of the administration. Honor and glory shall be hers unto the fourth and fifth generation—unless, of course, some Republican or Liberty League or disciple of the prophets of the air turns them into an omelet. This seems to be one of the few eventualities against which the new AAA hatchery code has not provided. The bright young men of the department of agriculture ought to do something about it.

Poems That Live
THE SHRINE
There is a shrine whose golden gate
Was opened by the Hand of God;
It stands serene, inviolate,
Though millions, have its pavement trod;
As fresh, as when the first sunrise
Awoke the lark in Paradise.
'Tis compassed with the dust and toil

Of common days, yet should there fall
A single speck, a single soil
Upon the whiteness of its wall,
The angels' tears in tender rain
Would make the temple their again.

Without, the world is tired and old,
But, once within the enchanted door,
The mists of time are backward rolled,
And creeds and ages are no more;
But all the human-hearted meet
In one communion vast and sweet.

I enter—all is simply fair,
Nor incense-clouds, nor carven throne;
But in the fragrant morning air
A gentle lady sits alone;
My mother—ah! whom should I see
Within, save ever only thee?

Heard & Seen

BY KAY JAY

Those who like to take daily exercise by digging dandelions out of the yard never seem to get caught up with their work, as the little yellow blossoms continue to appear and dot the landscape in spite of all effort put forth to make war on them. In the process of attempted complete elimination of this pestiferous plant that seems to want to take complete possession of the front lawn, you may get some encouragement from Don Coffey, of Washington C. H.

Don was making war on dandelions and he came upon one that looked to be the great-granddaddy of them all. He found that this plant had 18 clusters of blossoms and a root more than one inch in diameter at ground level. Don armed himself with a spade and proceeded to bring the root to the light of day, but got tired of the job at a depth of 18 inches of hard digging and chopped the root in two. It still measured a half-inch in diameter at the small end, showing that the root had probably penetrated to a total depth of around three feet.

What surprises me most about this yarn is not the size of the dandelion, which I'll admit was a whopper, but the fact that Don was digging in the yard at all, if there was an easy chair on the veranda. Don and I used to chum around together back in the horse-and-buggy days (he owned the outfit), and I never thought he would turn out to be an underground explorer.

Pickaway-co veterans of the World War, and others, will be interested in the invitation extended by Dr. D. J. Murphy, manager of Veterans' Hospital No. 97, to visit the institution next Sunday. The federal government has established a great plant just north of Chillicothe and on this occasion it will be open for public inspection. The day has been designated as "Hospital Day," and special programs along with tours of inspection have been arranged for visitors.

The hospital is a great institution, modern in every respect, and provided with a personnel of experts who are tending to every need of unfortunate veterans mostly classed as psychopathic cases. This great agency must be seen in its entirety to be thoroughly appreciated.

Sodium rhodante (whatever that is) will prolong life for at least two years, in the opinion of the scientist who discovered the new drug. Why wouldn't it be a good thing to advise the powers that be to give business a shot of the stuff.

Editorial Of The Day

PLANNED EGGS
(New York Herald Tribune)

Woe to the hen that lays eggs weighing less than 1 11-12 ounces an egg, for hers are the ways of rugged individualism. Such a bird shall surely end her days in a pot. The swift cleave of the ax shall sever her head in the twinkling of an eye, and the sooner the am famous from one end of the earth to the other!"

"Shrinking violet—but I love you for it. And you don't care about just leaving him flat when you're the big hit."

"What is that to me—now?"

He took a deep breath. "It must be swell to be without a conscience. Well, here we are, baby, now we got to run like the devil. I'll get the ticket and you head for the gates—and don't get in any fights on the way— and they both knew what he meant, remembering her entrance into New York and her quick trip to the jail. They hopped out of the cab, paid the driver and holding hands ran inside the station.

No minutes to spare now. Red caps offering to take the bundle from Doug. People staring at the gypsy clothes under the chic fur coat, at the bare feet, the bangles on ears, bright knotted scarf on her head.

"Quick, not that gate," Gatemans bawling out last minute warning. "Hey, hold it a second—" Doug shouting—running ahead of her now. "Hurry, kid, here, take your ticket—and money—" He was shoving them into her hands. "Watch yourself now. Can you carry this bundle all right?" Hands full, Gatemans yelling: "All aboard—train leaving for Pittsburgh—" Doug kissing her. "Go on, baby, don't stop now—go on—" The gate clicking between them. Doug mopping his brow—gatemans running with Consuelo, half carrying the heavy bundle.

Gay clothes disappearing, a last shout: "Goodby, my friend," over her shoulder, her voice high with excitement.

Doug stood waving his hand. He shouted: "Don't forget to write—" Now she was gone—gone. He walked slowly over and sat down on a bench. Suddenly he was tired. He wanted a good stiff drink of whisky. He mopped his brow; he wiped under his wilted collar. He felt dragged out—as if there was nothing left. He caught himself mumbling, "Don't forget to write—" and an ironical smile crossed his lips. "Now who ever heard of a gypsy writing?" and it was as if her lips had said the words.

He got up and left the station.

THEATRES

AT THE CIRCLE

Jessie Matthews, the new star, who is singing, dancing and charming her way into the hearts of picture fans with her dazzling portrayal in "Evergreen," the Gaumont British picture at the Circle Theatre, is also endowed with an inherent business sense. As a mite of a girl she called on Charles B. Cochran when that impresario was presenting in London "The Music Box Revue." Carrying a huge umbrella she asked permission to sing for him. Intrigued by her quaint appearance, Mr. Cochran listened and then offered to engage her for the revue.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Love takes the acid test in "I'll Love You Always," the Columbia picture with Nancy Carroll and George Murphy, due Friday at the Cliftona Theatre. Concerned with the trials and tribulations of a young married couple, who try to make ends meet—when their means to an end are almost nil the story dramatizes a very definite, important problem of modern civilization. George Murphy portrays a young engineer too proud to accept lesser jobs. His proud, headstrong nature eventually causes a rift to come between himself and his wife, Nancy Carroll, who has done everything possible, even to sacrificing her own acting career, to further her husband's ambition.

AT THE GRAND

"Straight From The Heart," starring Mary Astor and Roger Pryor, is the attraction Friday and Saturday at the Grand theatre. It is a Universal picture. The eighth chapter of "Rustlers of Red Dog" will also be shown.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

A FATAL ERROR

AN EXPERT'S pleasure at discovering the one way to defeat a contract is comparable to his delight in discovering the one way to fulfill a difficult contract. When a player has two ways of defeating a contract and only one way of helping declarer fulfill it, both he and his partner feel upset in case the wrong method is followed. The hand today was the occasion of one of those fatal errors.

South passed, then bidding went: West, 1-Heart; East, 2-No Trumps, to force further bidding from partner; West, 3-Hearts; East, 4-Hearts. The opening lead was a trump, one of the two methods of starting play capable of defeating the contract. The other method would have been to lead off the Ace of clubs (as the cards were held) but that might have been the one way to allow West to go game (with other adverse holdings). Declarer took three rounds of trumps, leaving the last lead in dummy, and all opposing hearts drawn.

On the third round of trumps North discarded his lowest spade, indicating the suit he least wanted partner to lead, although the opening dummy lead showed North must hold the K of spades, as well as high honor strength in both minor suits.

Declarer led a low diamond and finessed the Q, although he must have known that the K lay at his left. Evidently the declarer did not hold the Q-J of spades, or even the J, but he might hold the missing Q. North was in with his K of spades, and he led toward a low diamond, that suit, putting the declarer in with his Ace. Experts read "signs" afforded by opponents' play as Indians do when following a trail. West knew that North held the Ace of clubs, before the latter passed the first lead of that suit, allowing dummy's Q to win. The declarer led back a low diamond and ruffed. North knew that West held in his remaining 6 cards just 1 trump and 5 black cards, without knowing the division of those side cards in spades and clubs. When West led his second club it was the plain duty of North to win with his Ace, then lead back a club. He took his Ace, but he failed to lead back the club. He led back his 3 of spades, the one lead which could give fulfillment of the game contract.

The declarer smiled his thanks. Dummy played low. South put up the 9 and West won the seventh trick for his side. The Ace of hearts, dummy's Ace of spades and its K of clubs yielded the three additional tricks required to fulfill the contract, which could not be made had the declarer been forced to lead spades.

Air, Water and Sunshine Needed by Newborn Baby

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

AIR, WATER and sunshine are things that must be properly mixed and administered in proper quantities to the new-born baby.

The first cry of the new-born child is for air. It is suddenly and dramatically transferred from an aquatic existence, where it has not used its lungs at all, but has obtained oxygen through the mother's blood, to an existence in which its life depends upon the proper utilization of a new medium—air.

It also finds water very rapidly through the expiration of air and from the surface of its skin. No wonder it takes some time for the little organism to adjust itself to these strange new conditions.

Needs Air Within, Without

The baby not only needs air within its lungs, but air on the outside of the body, to assist in getting rid of waste products and to regulate its temperature. A young baby, of course, should not be exposed to cold air or cool air for any length of time without being covered, but if, after a few days, it is taught to sleep in a room with fresh air, and given fresh air through the day, it will thrive better, be more contented, and less subject to such infections as colds.

Fresh air does not necessarily mean cold air, but it is well to remember that the baby should never be kept in a room where a gas stove is burning for any length of time, or where there is a burning gas jet. Humidification should be attended to by placing a pan of water over the radiator. In the hot months of summer, the baby's body should be exposed to currents of air as much as possible. Constant change of air around the baby's body is effective in keeping the skin in good condition.

in reducing its temperature and preventing heat stroke and the diseases incidental to high temperatures.

Water, both inside and out, is essential for the baby's health and comfort. In the first few days of life, the baby loses a considerable amount of water, which is the reason for its primary loss of weight. A small amount of water given to the baby in a medicine dropper, half an ounce two or three times a day during the first few days, is calculated to diminish this weight loss and make the baby more comfortable until the mother's milk begins to appear. After that, the milk will supply the baby with most of its water, and attention to this detail need not be so carefully observed. Only boiled, cooled water should be given, and not sweetened.

First Tub Bath

The baby's first tub bath should not be given until after the cord has fallen off and the umbilicus thoroughly healed. But before that, it should be sponged daily with warm water at 100 degrees Centigrade. If soap is used, it should be a mild, white, unscented soap. The eyes should receive special attention during the bath. If there is any secretion, they should be bathed each day with a solution of boric acid. A separate piece of cotton should be used for each eye. The mouth should not be washed with a cloth nor rubbed hard, as this may break the mucous membrane, invite infection, and a small piece of absorbent cotton wrapped around an applicator, dipped into warm water or boric acid solution, should be used to clean the nose. The same method should be used for the ears. The ears should be dried thoroughly after bathing.

If the head is covered with oily material or has crusts, a little warm sweet oil should be rubbed in gently, after which soapsuds and warm water should be used. The body should be dried by gentle patting with a soft towel, and not by rubbing. Talcum powder used in places where the skin touches, as under the armpits, between the legs, and in the neck, will tend to keep the skin in good condition.

Pecan Pie Featured This Week By Mrs. Thurn; Other Requested Recipes

Recipes Suitable for Spring Menus, for Family and Entertaining; Table Cookery Emphasized For Time Saving Meals

Dear Friends in Circleville:

When the request came in for a pecan pie recipe, I realized I was letting myself in for another deluge of pie letters similar to the storm which followed the shoofly recipe. For pecan pie that favorite of certain parts of the south, may be made by several different "rules" and in each case is delicious, and is, in each case, certainly pecan pie.

This recipe is one used in Texas, and I think delicious. Make as a one crust pie. Use one and one half teaspoons flour; four table-spoons sugar; one eighth teaspoon salt; two eggs; two cups scalded milk; one-half teaspoon vanilla; one cup pecan halves; pastry to make one shell. Mix flour, sugar, salt, and the beaten eggs together. Add scalded milk and at the time of pouring into the pie shell, add the nuts. Line a pie pan with your best pastry, and pinch the edge with the fingers. Pour in the custard mixture and bake in a hot oven 425 degrees, for ten minutes. Then reduce the heat to slow, 300 degrees F., and bake twenty minutes more, or until the custard is firm. When it is done a silver knife inserted in it will come out clean. Some cooks like a meringue on this, others prefer it plain.

Ham Croquettes

Another request is for ham croquettes. Try making them very small, stick a wooden pick in each and serve on a salad plate, or as part of a canape tray, or as a garnish for a first course appetizer. Or if made larger and served as an entree or main course, dress with cream sauce or gravy.

Two cups finely ground boiled or roast ham; two cups mashed potatoes; well beaten yolks three eggs; two tablespoons cream; one eighth teaspoon cayenne.

Blend all ingredients together, adding more cream if necessary for a smooth, but firm mixture. Shape, roll in crumbs, beat on eggs white, then crumbs, and fry in deep hot fat. If the beaten egg whites are added to this recipe, and the croquettes shaped as small balls, you have ham puffs, delicious as a luncheon dish.

Cheese Pan Cakes

If you have one of the handy electrical griddles, or even a large chafing dish or grill, these delicious luncheon pancakes may be made right at the table.

Two cups flour; two teaspoons baking powder; one and one third cups milk; one teaspoon salt; two eggs; two tablespoons butter; six tablespoons grated American or Parmesan cheese.

Beat the eggs and milk together then add the flour, baking powder and salt, all sifted together. Add melted butter and cheese last. Have the griddle or pan hot, with a little melted fat in it. Use a large spoon to drop the batter. Do not make too small or too thick. When baked on each side, sprinkle with more grated cheese and small dabs of butter, roll and serve at once.

Chafing Dish Spaghetti

Three small sausages; one onion; two cups condensed tomato soup; two cups cooked, seasoned spaghetti. Split the sausages lengthwise and cut in small pieces then fry in the chafing dish or grill until brown. Move them to one side of the pan, and add the chopped onion, brown it for five minutes stirring frequently. Then add the tomato soup, mix and heat thoroughly. Add spaghetti and mix until well coated with the hot sauce and heated through. Serve at once.

Sardines in Anchovy Sauce

Buy very large, boneless sardines for this recipe. Do not drain off all the oil, but use at least one tablespoon for making the sauce; One tablespoon flour; one cup brown stock or bouillon; one teaspoon anchovy paste; one fourth teaspoon salt; the same of pepper. Heat the oil, stir in the flour to smoothness, then add the stock and anchovy paste. Stir till smooth and very hot. Season and lay in the sardines. When thoroughly hot, serve on toast. Men like this as a late supper dish.

Jumbled Eggs

Three large mushrooms (if fresh ones, saute them first in a little butter; if canned, use four or five) minced fine; one tablespoon rich gravy or stock or bouillon; one tablespoon butter; one fourth teaspoon pepper; one fourth teaspoon salt; six eggs. Heat the mushrooms, seasonings, butter and stock together until well bleached; add six well beaten eggs and scramble well with the mushrooms. Turn out as soon as the eggs are scrambled on toast. Delicious.

Toad Lives Double Life

An extraordinary feature of the life cycle of the common toad revealed by an English scientist, is that every male toad is a potential female. Throughout its life, according to this authority, the male toad has within it, lying dormant, all the apparatus for egg production. This, he says, is capable of being called into activity through the performance of an operation, and when such a measure is taken the progeny of the transformed toads are all males.

Make HAPPINESS
a Habit

Wouldn't you like to step up the amount of enjoyment you get from life? The knack of keeping fit is largely a matter of regular habits. Your happiness may be hampered by common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in your meals.

Did you know that your grocer has a natural cereal food which corrects this condition? Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, eaten regularly, supplies generous "bulk." Also vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle and safe for normal individuals. More effective than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this natural food much better than taking patent medicines? Serve it as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. It contains much more "bulk" than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Birthday Cakes Add Charm To The Anniversary Occasion

What charm has a birthday if there is no birthday cake? Crowns and children alike are stirred by the sight of a cake aglow with flaming candles.

For a club anniversary, or a personal birthday, here is a very clever way to symbolize the passing of years. Each tray bearing the service for the individual may be decorated with a large, snowy marshmallow in which a tiny colored candle claims the center. It's a gay ceremony when the candles are lighted. The color scheme possibilities are great because the candles can be obtained in many hues.

The large, center-of-attraction cakes must be unusually delicious to live up to their tradition. Here are two recipes that ought to meet the requirements:

Sponge Cake Dainty

3 eggs
1/2 C. sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 C. prepared cake flour
1/4 tsp. salt

Separate eggs and beat whites stiff, but not dry. Gradually add sugar, beating steadily. Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored, and add to egg white mixture. Then add vanilla. Sift flour, measure, and sift again with salt. Fold gently into egg mixture. Pour into an ungreased, paper-lined pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 to 30 minutes. This cake is small, making only 6 servings. A butter cream frosting is suitable for it.

Princess Cake

1/2 C. butter
1/2 C. sugar
3 eggs
2 1/2 C. prepared cake flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 C. milk
1 tsp. vanilla

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream well together. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift flour, measure and sift again with baking powder and salt. Add alternately to creamed mixture with milk to which has been added the vanilla. Bake in 2 ten inch layers in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Makes 12 servings. When cool, the cake may be frosted with this icing:

1 1/2 C. sugar
3 Tbsp. white corn syrup
1/2 C. water
2 egg whites
1 tsp. vanilla

Boil sugar, syrup and water to 238 degrees, or until it will spin a thread when dropped from a spoon. Pour slowly over stiffly beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Beat until of a consistency to spread. Spread thickly between the layers and over the top and sides of the cake, reserving one cup of the frosting for decorating. To this add a few drops of pink vegetable coloring. Make little swirls on the top of the cake where the candles are to be put and alternating swirls on the sides of the cake to get the effect of a white frosting with all the ridges edged with a delicate pink. An extra fluting of pink may be put around the base of the cake after it is placed on the serving plate to give a more finished appearance.

Edison's Bug Killer

When Thomas Edison was a boy he invented an electrical apparatus for killing bugs. He was employed in the Western Union office in Boston, where he went in 1868. This office had formerly been occupied by a restaurant and it was infested with swarms of cockroaches. They became such a nuisance that Edison finally placed on the wall beside his table two strips of tinfoil. He connected one strip with the positive pole of the battery that furnished the current to the telegraph wires and the other strip to the negative pole. Thus a cockroach coming in contact with both strips was immediately annihilated.

Wife Preservers

If you are traveling and wish to carry bath salts with you, don't attempt to take them in your glass container. It is too heavy. Pour enough to last you for the trip into a clean salt or sugar bag, and stow it among your underwear. The salt will help perfume the clothing and also be ready for your bath.

ATLANTA SCHOOL

Music Contests Interesting
On Friday, April 26 the third and fourth grades had a music contest. The following pupils ranked 1st and 2nd respectively in the events listed.

Third grade girls solo — Lizzie Bowles and Mary Folrod.
Fourth grade girls' solo — Ruth Kelly and Mary Kearns.
Third grade boys' solo — Dale Cain and Charles Downing.
Fourth Grade boys' solo — Darrel Turner and Forest Nixon.
In the duet, Ruth Kelly and Mary Folrod won first and George Holt and Charles Downing won second. The girls' chorus was judged better than the boys.

In a similar contest held in the fifth and sixth grades, Marilyn Campbell, Beulah Self, Dean Stonerock, Paul Adams, Martha Hamman, Stella Skinner, Judson Parks, Paul Mills and Jean Creighton won honors.

James O'Neil and Jess Funk won the honors on poems.

Next Monday, Miss Ollie Ater, the music instructor, will sponsor a final contest, with all preliminary winners participating. It is hoped that parents and patrons will come and enjoy this program. Last Saturday Lawrence Hunter, Allen Conrad and John Lamb accompanied by Mr. Conlaw journeyed to Columbus to take part in the District State Scholarship Tests at Ohio State University. During the afternoon they were the guests of the university at the baseball game, the polo game and football game. At night they attended the Notre Dame-Ohio State track meet.

John Peck was awarded a state scholarship certificate by the State Department of Education.

Literary Contest Ends
Last Monday the final program of the literary contest was held. The judges awarded the victory to Section B.

AMATEUR CARD ENDED BY RAIN HELD TONIGHT

Aronson Announces All Boys Ready for Friday Evening Bouts Starting at 8:30

Norman Aronson's going to get a job as a professional rain maker. His fight card last week was postponed because of rain and last night old Jupiter Pluvius again knocked the props from under Aronson's amateur card.

Nevertheless the promoter is going on and has announced the card in its entirety will be staged this evening at the regular time, 8:30 o'clock.

The bouts are:
Main go: Willie Gaines, 154 pounds, versus Salty Toles, 150 pounds.

Semi-final: Merle Davis, 134 pounds, versus Chuck Jackson, 137 pounds.

Preliminary: Eddie Bird, 124 pounds, versus Harold Brown, 122 pounds.

Curtain-raiser: Emerson Sayre, 100 pounds, versus James Emerine, 100 pounds.

All the fighters are in good condition for their three rounds and promise an interesting evening.

Cum Robinson will be the third man in the ring with Bill Pickens as the announcer.

Scippo park, four miles south of the city on Route 23, is the scene and if the hour doesn't bring a cloudburst the fight will go on with a good crowd expected to wend its way into the park.

SCHROEDER NEW COACH AT LOGAN

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

WAS TUBBY'S JOB

Few people know that had he kept his health George "Tubby" Vierbome would have been offered the coaching job at Circleville high school this year—Tubby's one of the most popular persons to ever graduate from the local school—He is making a fine recovery in the Stark-co sanatorium, Canton—Incidentally, Elmer Riger's Orville team defeated Vierbome's Dalton 11 last fall, 73 to 6.

TREGO SCORES 17

Ellsworth Trego, Commercial Point contribution to Ohio collegiate activities, won no less than 17 points in four events in the Capital university meet with Kenyon—He captured the broad jump and 100-yard dash, was tied for first in the high jump and placed second in the 220-yard dash.

SHIRES' TEAM FIRST

Art Shires, former Chicago and Columbus club sacker, has his Harrisburg club in first place in the N.Y.-P league—Art's playing first base himself—* Luke Sewell, veteran catcher, is receiving a lot of the credit for the fine showing the Chicago White Sox are making in the American league; Luke came from Washington after being with a couple of other clubs—George Washington, who graduated to the Sox from Indianapolis, is rated the best poker player on the club; other members have conceded him this honor.

FIVE MEN HELP

Five new men have helped the Rochester Red Wings—They are Johnny Mize, Gene Moore, Dick Ward, Johnny Michaels and Sparky Adams, the veteran fielder signed as a free agent.

ODDS DOWN TO 50-1

Jack Doyle, Gotham betting commissioner, quoted Cincinnati at 1,000 to 1 when the season opened but at that price the odds have been cut to 50 to 1—The Cardinals and Indians are favorites in Doyle's book.

RED BIRD STREAK ENDED BY KLINGER

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 10—The Columbus Red Birds today had snapped a seven-game losing streak with a vengeance by routing the Kansas City Blues here yesterday 9 to 1.

For the last seven games, the Birds have been "down-under," but yesterday they cracked wide open in the seventh inning and chalked up seven runs. They pounded two "mighty Blue" hurlers for 16 hits.

PITCHER IS HERO

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 10—Pitcher Babe Hosler today was the hero of a 3 to 2 victory scored by the Indiana university baseball team over Purdue.
Hosler, a sophomore, pitched a three hit game, striking out eleven Boilermakers. In the eleventh inning he rolled out a bunt with the bases loaded to bring in the winning run.

INDIANS GAIN LEAGUE LEAD

Harder Blanks Yankees In Abbreviated Contest; Ferrell Beats Chicago

CLEVELAND, May 10—Aided by Wesley Ferrell, former Cleveland ace now hurling for the Boston Red Sox, and a sudden series of thunderstorms, the Cleveland Indians today were back in the American league lead.

The Tribe chalked up its second straight shutout yesterday by handing the New York Yankees a 5 to 0 trimming at League park at Boston, Ferrell and the Red Sox did their bit by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 1, dropping them into second place.

Harder gave the Ruthless Yankees only three singles in five innings while fanning six of them. The Indians were to try to make it two straight over the Yanks today behind the pitching of Oral Hildebrand, while Vito Tamulis, young southpaw, was to attempt to put New York back in the win column.

"RABBIT" IN GAME, BRAVES PERK UP

BOSTON, May 10—A new spirit pervaded the deafened Boston Braves today after the appearance in the Braves lineup for the first time in over a year of plucky Second Baseman Walter "Rabbit" Maranville, whose leg was broken a year ago. Although the Braves were humbled by the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, Maranville, inserted when Les Mallon was cut out of the game by Umpire Sears, laid down a sacrifice and singled in two trips to the plate and handled perfectly two fielding chances, one via his famous "vest pocket" catch method.

WAGE DEMAND OF RELIEFERS TO BE DENIED

Stillman Keeps Hands Off Struggle In Several South-eastern Counties

COLUMBUS, May 10.—Federal relief administration officials will refuse to arbitrate wage demands of relief workers in four southeastern Ohio counties, state officials asserted today.

Refusing to be drawn into the controversy over wages paid relief workers in Athens, Vinton, Perry and Hocking counties, C. C. Stillman, federal relief administrator for Ohio, today advised officials of relief units in the four counties he will not intervene in the relief strike, threatened tomorrow.

"We will abide by the decision of the local wage rate committees in the counties affected," Stillman said today. "There is a state grievance board to which the workers may appeal their case over the rulings of the wage committees, but executives of the federal relief administration here will not intervene."

Workers are demanding an increase of five cents an hour from 45 to 50 cents in wages paid on work relief projects.

Ned Boggs, director of the service department of the state relief administration here, and chairman of the state grievance board, today said he has received no notice of appeal from representatives of workers.

He pointed out that increasing the wages of workers in the area would result in decreased employment. If more money is paid out in wages, there must naturally be either fewer workers for the money allocated to those counties can go only so far.

LAND LEASED FOR PROJECT IN COUNTIES

8,000-Acres Contracted In Vinton, Athens and Perry-cos By Government

COLUMBUS, May 10.—The first huge block of land for the federal forestry project in southeastern Ohio has been leased in Vinton, Athens and Perry counties. B. L. Groesbeck, in charge of the program, announced here today.

Eight thousand acres in the area has been contracted by the federal government at an average price of $4 an acre, Groesbeck said. Federal examiners are working in two other sections of the area, taking leases on other large tracts, he added.

Sites for the nine Civilian Conservation Corps camps to be located in the area soon after June 1 have been selected, Groesbeck said. They will be located, one each in the following counties: Noble, Washington, Athens, Hocking, Vinton, Pike, Scioto, Lawrence and Jackson.

Approximately 1,800 CCC recruits will start work clearing debris from the land, improving roads through the area and planting thousands of trees about the middle of June.

back by the House finance committee, and it must raise $7,000,000 in new revenue largely through new taxes or there will be no old age pension payments after June 30.

The House convenes Monday night, the Senate Tuesday. Nothing of importance was on the Monday night House calendar, but the following day the Carey milk control bill, substitute for the Burk act now in effect, will be considered. If the Carey bill is not passed or the Burk bill re-acted, there will be no state control of the milk industry after June 30.

Also on Tuesday the House will undertake to pass the Waldvogel Senate bill revising the state liquor control act. Its adoption is being urged by the Senate although amendments in committee have left few important changes in the bill. Its chief function now is to raise the alcoholic content of wine

The same day the House taxation committee probably will approve Chairman P. E. Ward's plan for raising $7,000,000 for pensions. It contemplates a 10 per cent amusement tax, a 2 per cent tax on personal loan companies and automobile discount firms, plus a $2,500,000 appropriation from general sales tax receipts.

Marvane Wallace, talented dancer, danced before the throne and at the close of her dance crowned Miss Pohl queen.

Following the crowning of the queen, the crowd's attention was centered on the three May poles in the middle of the field, around which the dances took place. The first four grades of all the city schools were represented in these pretty little dances, during which other students directed by Mrs. Davis sang songs accompanied by the school band.

The dances included "Go Round and Round the Village" by first grade pupils; "The Mulberry Bush" by second grade pupils; "Looby Lou" by third grade pupils and the May pole dance by fourth and eighth grade pupils.

Followed by Events

The dances were followed by four track events in charge of Miss Eleanor Ryan and judged by P. S. Herberholz, in which several members of the freshmen, sophomore and junior physical education classes participated, the sophomores winning three out of the four races.

The winner of each event was crowned by the May queen.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Vicious Circle of Textile and Cotton Slump Baffles Administration

WASHINGTON—Next to the precarious reign of King Cotton, probably nothing is worrying the Administration right now as much as the ever weakening pulse of that interdependent industry—textiles.

The two industries—chief economic backbone of New England and the South—go hand in hand. Textiles are suffering in part from the uncertainty of cotton.

This is one ill which White House advisers may attempt to remedy immediately.

For weeks, mill after mill has been closing in New England. The epidemic is now spreading through the South. One factor is the fear that raw cotton will slump in price. That fear causes textile wholesalers to hold back their orders. This in turn causes textile mills to close their doors.

All are waiting for a stabilized price of cotton. That in turn depends on whether Secretary Henry Wallace will once again set a loan price of 12 cents a pound on all cotton.

Due to price-setting last year, the United States Government is the biggest holder of cotton in the world today. The chances are that Wallace succumbs to the tremendous pressure now hammering at him, and fixes the same loan price, Uncle Sam will increase his holdings further.

This, in turn, depresses the market. Textile wholesalers and manufacturers, in turn, get uneasy wanting to know what is going to happen. It is a vicious circle not dissimilar to Hoover's purchase of wheat which drove the price of wheat lower and lower.

This is only part of what is worrying Administration mavericks regarding textiles.

Another thing is the high price of textiles. Manufacturers lay this entirely to the processing tax. Administration experts say this accounts for only part. They claim there is also an increase for which the manufacturer is responsible.

At any rate, prices of textiles have now zoomed out of all proportion to the income of labor. This is what has caused the influx of Japanese goods. Importation of them jumped from 7,000,000 yards during the entire year of 1934 to 21,000,000 yards during the single month of January, 1935.

This probably will be barred by tariff increases.

But the basic problem in the textile-cotton industry is harder. Some New Deal advisers privately think that without serious economic readjustments it is unsolvable.

Dickinson and Dickinson

The principal address of the inaugural celebration at Dickinson College last week was given by white-haired Senator Dickinson.

The matter of names was a mere coincidence. The Iowa Senator had had no previous connection with the Pennsylvania college.

This is how he came to be chosen:

A delegation of students came to Washington two weeks ago, bent on securing a speaker. Starting high, they tried the White House, but Marvin McIntyre shook his head. They next approached Senator Borah, with no more success. Pat Hurley, in his turn, resisted the appeal of a brother in Sigma Chi, and said he was booked up.

By now the day was wearing on. They had to get someone. They went to the Capitol and asked advice of Frank Bost, secretary to Pennsylvania's Senator Davis.

Bost had just been talking with Dickinson on the floor of the Senate. The coincidence of the name—Senator Dickinson and Dickinson College—struck him.

"Why not get Senator Dickinson?" he suggested.

The boys hadn't thought of him.

YOUNG KILLER, FOUR OTHERS DIE IN 'CHAIR'

Raymond Hamilton, Southwest Desperado, is Pallid but Composed

BUDDIES EXECUTED

Three Die in Joliet for Bank Murders

By International News Service

Five convicted murderers, one of them Raymond Hamilton, desperado terror of the southwest, calmly went to their deaths today in the electric chairs at Huntsville, Tex., and Joliet, Ill., penitentiaries.

Accompanying Hamilton to the Texas electric chair was Joe Palmer, his companion in a Texas prison farm escape that cost the life of a young guard.

At the old Illinois penitentiary three bank bandits, charged with murdering three men, were executed.

Hamilton Pale, Composed

Hamilton, pale of face but composed, said his last farewell in the death chamber and was bolted into eternity a few minutes after midnight.

Hamilton's show of bravado left him earlier last night when word was brought to the death cell that Gov. James Allred had refused to grant clemency and the court of appeals had turned down a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

The once-swaggering outlaw, who had boasted he would return and "haunt" his prosecutors, turned ashen and he trembled visibly. As the hour of execution drew nearer, however, the desperado regained a degree of composure.

The double execution ended one of the most sensational crime chapters in the history of the southwest. A daring series of robberies, abductions and gun battles with police had given the 21-year-old Hamilton a ranking as Public Enemy No. 1 in recent months.

Hamilton and his gunman ally were executed for the murder of Major Crowson, a young prison guard, on Jan. 16, 1934. The one engineered two of the most daring prison breaks ever made in Texas. Crowson was shot down when Hamilton and Palmer, aided by the late Clyde Barrow and his cigar-smoking sweetheart, Bonnie Parker, led a break from the East-ham prison farm.

Barrow and the Parker woman later were ambushed in Louisiana.

Slew Cashier, Others

Convicted of killing J. Charles Bundy, cashier, and two others in a raid on the state bank of Leonore, Ill., Fred Garner, John Hauff and Arthur Thiele were put to death. Garner and Thiele, both of Rockford, Ill., were brothers-in-law.

DIME LETTER CRAZE RETURNS GIRL LOST 19 YEARS TO MOTHER

MEDFORD Ore., May 10—The chain letter craze was credited with returning a long lost daughter to her mother here today.

After a search for nineteen years, Mrs. Marie McDaniel, Medford, picked up a "send-a-dime" chain letter sent her by friends in Los Angeles, and saw a name similar to that of her daughter listed among those hoping to receive a shower of dimes.

Mrs. McDaniel immediately sent a telegram to Ruth McDaniel, Santa Monica, Cal. After an exchange of wires, the girl's identity was established and she rushed to Medford for a reunion with her mother.

Mrs. McDaniel said she lost trace of Ruth 19 years ago when she left her baby girl with relatives in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Dies for Crimes

Raymond Hamilton

Hamilton, youthful terror of the southwest, paid for his crime life Thursday night when his life was snuffed out in the electric chair. At the same time, Hamilton's buddies and three Illinois bandits were executed for murder.

LUTZ JAILED FOR FORGERY

Local Man Pleads Guilty to Signing Father's Name; Held Under Bond

Ralph Lutz, 25, of W. High-st. was held in the county jail Friday under $2,000 bond after pleading guilty to forgery of his father's name to several checks. His hearing was in Mayor W. B. Cady's court after he was arrested Thursday evening by Officer Alva Shasteen.

The charge was filed against Lutz by Gaylord Phillips, operator of the Scioto Grill. It is reported there are several other checks out against Lutz.

WATERWORKS JOB NEARLY COMPLETE

Last Installation Made At Property of Dr. Schiff; to Clear Streets

ASHVILLE, May 10—The two hundred and thirtieth water installation was made by E. C. Bartling & Son, waterworks contractors, this week for Dr. L. C. Schiff on E. Main-st. on the site of his proposed new residence to be erected this summer. This practically completed the waterworks project, ground for which was broken on Long-st at Cherry-st. Oct. 18, 1934.

There yet remains some clean-up work on the streets as the trenches will be flooded and filled up and the roadway made passable and then it is the plan of the Trustees of Public Affairs to take over the future final street repairs when they are ready to be made, except the brick portion of Main-st which repair work will be made by the contractors.

The work taken over by the village will be done under direction of the street commissioner with possibly public funds and by Asheville labor. It is anticipated a considerable sum can thus be saved.

MISS SCHLEYER BITTEN BY DOG

Miss Anna Schleyer, S. Scioto-st. was treated by a physician Thursday afternoon after she was bitten by a chew dog at Mound and Scioto-sts.

The dog is the property of C. H. Hickey, W. Mound-st.

A new dress Miss Schleyer was wearing was torn.

The concert will be free.

CAR, TRUCK HIT

The Ford V-8 of Ernest Ebenhack, Williamsport, and the truck of Harry Friend, Bloomington, came together west of the Scioto river bridge Thursday afternoon with no one injured.

LEGISLATORS FORCE ACTION IN LAST WEEK

Senate to Consider School Bill Day Before Adjournment Date

MILK CONTROL UP

Appropriation Bill, Pensions Force Action

COLUMBUS, May 10—The Ohio senate will consider the Traxler-Kiefer public school foundation program bill and other school legislation next Wednesday, the day before scheduled sine die adjournment. Majority Floor Leader Paul Yoder (D), Dayton, announced today.

COLUMBUS, May 10—With the most important business of the session put off until the eleventh hour, Ohio house and senate leaders agreed today that only outstanding measures will receive attention before sine die adjournment scheduled for next Thursday.

Money Bill Problem

Two matters of paramount importance headed the agenda, followed by a dozen other major bills. The assembly cannot adjourn without passing the $53,000,000 biennial appropriations bill which to date has not even been reported.

SENATE GETS BANKING BILL

House Gives Eccles' Measure Nice Vote; Glass Seen As Leading Foe

WASHINGTON, May 10—The administration's banking bill, which would put the vast federal reserve system under government control, faced a vigorous onslaught in the senate today after passing the house by a vote of 271 to 110.

Its foes look to Senator Glass (D) of Virginia, leading critic of the Roosevelt money policies, to halt the bill. It would drastically revise the federal reserve law of which Glass is co-author.

The measure—described by many as the most important banking law since passage of the original federal reserve law in the Wilson administration—is said by experts to take a long step toward establishing a central banking system.

The senate battle may be a test of strength between youthful Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, and elderly Glass. Eccles sponsored the measure.

ANOTHER HALF INCH OF RAIN RECORDED

Another half inch was added Thursday afternoon and evening to May's amazing total. To be exact the rainfall was a little short of a half inch being .45, according to Dr. H. R. Clarke's indicator.

The river had dropped to the 95-foot stage today.

COLORED MAN DIES

Henry Garner, colored, was found dead in bed early Friday at the home of George Beatty Island-rd, where he had been living several weeks.

Garner is believed a former resident of Gallia-co. Funeral arrangements in charge of M. S. Rinehart have not been completed.

MELL VOTES FOR BANKING MEASURE

Mell G. Underwood, New Lexington, supported the administration's banking bill which passed the house of representatives 271 to 110 Thursday.

Underwood represents the 11th Ohio district which includes Pickaway-co.

All six Republicans in the Ohio delegation and three Democrats, Duffey of Toledo, Trux of Bucyrus and Felsinger of Sandusky opposed the bill.

SCHOOLS' MAY DAY FETE PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

The May Day festivities of the local schools, Thursday afternoon, the first ever held on the high school athletic field, were very picturesque and outstanding. The program was postponed from Wednesday, May 1, because of rain.

A large crowd of parents, friends and pupils witnessed the affair. The crowning of Miss Dorothy Fohl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fohl, N. Pickaway-st., a senior in the high school, as May Queen was the feature of the ceremonies.

The festivities began when Mrs. Ray Davis, music supervisor, who was in charge of the celebration, sounded a whistle. The march to the throne by the May queen and her court of honor was made from the rear of the high school building down the north side of the campus to the beautifully decorated throne in the southeast corner.

Flowers Bank Throne

The back of the throne was banked with vari-colored spring flowers and artificial grass covered the steps which led to the queen's white chair decorated with flowers. Raymond Hill and Gaylord Greenlee were the queen's heralds and blew trumpets before the ceremony, dances and track events.

Miss Fohl, an attractive blond, was pretty in a long white organ-die dress and was preceded to the throne by her court of honor, the attendants marching in pairs. Ann Vlerehome and Mary Ann Sapp attired in long pink dresses were first in the line followed by Mary Newmyer and Betty Lee Nicker-son in blue; Rosemary Hammel

46 PLANES UNREPORTED

Believed to Have Landed On Islands In 1,300 Mile Flight to Midway

HONOLULU, T. H., May 10—Rigid "wartime" secrecy today hid the whereabouts of the aerial armada of 46 United States navy fighting planes that winged westward from here more than twenty hours ago, supposedly bound for Midway island, in an integral move in the navy's vast secret war game being played in mid-Pacific.

From authoritative unofficial sources, it was learned the planes at dawn today had not yet arrived at Midway.

Reports of bad weather in the vicinity of isolated Midway island, caused the 46 planes to halt their massed flight, it was reported.

The fliers descended at or near French Frigate shoals, five hundred miles northwest of Honolulu, it was believed.

The fliers are familiar with the shoals, it was pointed out, having covered their vicinity in previous massed flights from Pearl Harbor base.

From the same unofficial source, it was reported that Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, was at Midway aboard the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, awaiting the result of the unprecedented 1,340-mile massed flight.

BANDITS SHOT IN PAYROLL HOLD-UP

CLEVELAND May 10—Single-handed, an East Cleveland man returning from a bank after cashing a number of payroll checks for friends, today put to rout a gang of four alleged bandits.

He shot down two of the men, and put the others to flight. The victims were taken to City Hospital, where the condition of one, whose name was given as John Simone, 25, was reported as critical.

The other, who police said was Tony Prinelli, 25, was less seriously wounded, according to hospital attaches.

CHARGE GERMANY AIDS ABYSSINIA

ROME, May 10—The influential newspaper Giornale D'Italia today charged Germany has supplied Abyssinia with much war material to fortify her in her quarrel with Italy.

Modern chemicals, rifles, machine-guns, anti-aircraft guns, armored cars, and airplanes all have been shipped to Abyssinia lately from Germany, the paper said.

FATE OF LAMSON IS NEARING JURY

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 10—Within 24 hours, David A. Lamson, Stanford university press executive, may know his fate.

The middle-aged jury of eight men and four women, which is to determine whether Lamson killed his attractive wife Alice, may be charged with the duty of finding a verdict this evening should Prosecutor Allan P. Lindsay finish his final argument this afternoon. It was announced by Superior Judge R. R. Syer.

Lindsay, in the midst of a tirade against defense scientific witnesses, said he may take the entire day, however, to complete his summation.

ALTAR SOCIETY TO MEET

Members of the Altar society of St. Joseph's church will meet at 7:30 p. m. Friday at the home of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Voll, 119 S. Washington-st.

CHAIN LETTERS BRING CHARGE

H. S. Harris

Three Denver men were arrested on charges of using the mails to defraud as the federal government cracked down on alleged chain-letter racketeering. Seizure of 1,200 of the "send a dollar" type letters resulted in charges against H. S. Harris, left

JUDGE NAMED LIQUOR CHIEF

J. W. Miller of Bucyrus Succeeds Burk, Who Is Expected to Be Supervisor

COLUMBUS, May 10—Probate Judge J. W. Miller of Bucyrus today was appointed state liquor director by Gov. Martin L. Davey. He succeeded Clarence H. Burk, New London, whose resignation becomes effective at the close of business tomorrow.

Born in Bucyrus 57 years ago, Judge Miller was graduated from Bucyrus high school and the college of law at Ohio State university. He was admitted to the bar in 1901.

Judge Miller was elected secretary of the Bucyrus Loan and Building company in 1905, serving until 1929. He was elected Bucyrus city solicitor in 1923 and re-elected in 1925 and 1927. While he was solicitor he instituted the Logan Gas company rate case recently decided by the utilities commission.

First elected probate judge of Crawford-co in 1928, Judge Miller was re-elected in 1932 without opposition either in the primary or the general election. He was the original Davey-for-governor man in Crawford-co. He is married and has three daughters.

The governor did not disclose whether he plans to transfer Burk to another post, although it has been persistently rumored that he will name the Port Clinton man, to the position of state supervisor of liquor stores.

Frank Taylor, present supervisor, has resigned effective May 15. Salary of the liquor director is $6,500 a year, while the state supervisor of stores is paid $5,000 annually.

AT CONFERENCE

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Police Chief W. F. McCreedy attended a meeting of law officers in Columbus Thursday at which time the use of the radio was discussed.

Hospital News

William Kamey, W. Corwin-st. was taken to White Cross hospital Friday morning in the Rinehart ambulance for treatment for pneumonia. He is seriously ill.

Earl Scott, 313 E. Mount-st. was admitted to Berger hospital, Thursday, for treatment.

Louis Werner, of Wellston, underwent a cataract operation at Berg hospital Friday morning, performed by Dr. C. G. Stewart.

VETERANS ASK FDR APPROVAL

Flood of Telegrams Sent to White House Urging Support of Patman Bill

WASHINGTON, May 10—The appeal by veterans' organizations for a telegraphic barrage of appeal for presidential approval of the Patman soldiers' bonus payment bill began to show results today as more than 5,000 telegrams were received at the White House.

Officials said none of the messages had been read as yet, but it was presumed that the great majority asked President Roosevelt to sign the bill which provides for immediate payment of the $2,000,000,000 veterans' adjusted service certificates in greenbacks.

NEW SHOE FIRM TO LOCATE HERE

The Merit Shoe Co., a branch of the Endicott-Johnson Co. has leased the rooms on W. Main-st. now occupied by the Moore Shoe Co. and the Green Lantern restaurant, the Circle Realty Co. announced today.

The new company will probably open for business about July 1 with the building, main floor and basement, to be completely remodeled.

JURY SEATED IN PARENTAGE CASE

Testimony was being heard today by a jury in Judge J. W. Adkins' court in the paternity case of Dolly Marie Knece against Howard Purfinbayer. Both are residents of Williamsport.

The jurors are C. E. Myers, Edward C. Becker, Russell Reid, Samuel Jones, John Allen, G. B. Julick, C. W. Gluck, Edith B. Elm, Herbert Gray, Anna E. Plum, H. N. Stevenson and John A. Bell.

Attorneys are Earl A. Smith and J. W. Adkins, Jr. for the plaintiff and William D. Radcliff for the defendant.

KEATON IN DENIAL

Alonzo Keaton, 18, pleaded not guilty Friday when he was given a hearing before Squire H. O. Evesland for receiving stolen property. He will be tried for receiving a tire the property of Albert Smith.

Three other local youths, Maynard Keaton, Harold Rambo and Harold Smith are being held for investigation.

CITY OFFICIALS AIR DEBT WITH UTILITY CHIEFS

Mayor, Two Councilmen Attend Confab in Water Company's Offices

MEETING IS ASKED

Utility Would Accept 10-Year Contract

Officials of the Ohio Water Service Co., who Thursday started an action in the utilities commission seeking permission to discontinue furnishing water for fire protection, met with city officials Thursday afternoon in the company's office, W. Main-st. to discuss the city's indebtedness amounting to nearly $13,000.

The amount is the entirety of a back bill, the city now paying its rent monthly for fire hydrants.

In the conference were C. van den Berg, Jr., president of the utility; G. Taylor Evans, another water company official; W. B. Cady, mayor; John C. Goeller, president of council; and Ben H. Gordon, chairman of the council finance committee.

Want Bill Paid

The utility officials, who last week filed bankruptcy proceedings in federal court, Cleveland, are trying to clear up the city's debt for hydrant rental in any legal manner. "The money can come from the general fund, through a bond issue or any other way," Mr. van den Berg said, "just so we get it cleaned up."

Mr. van den Berg was for an immediate meeting with council to discuss ways and means to pay the bill. President Goeller vetoed this since the council by next Wednesday will know no more about the finances than it does now. Mr. Goeller suggested that the council hard as such as possible about the tax distribution, what it can be made and how much it can amount to in that report to council next week just where the city stands and how much it would be able to pay the utility.

Mr. van den Berg suggested a discussion prior to his meeting with the officials that the city would be willing to accept a year contract with the city on a rate paid by consumers at a significant increase to wipe out the $13,000 debt in that period of years. It is believed council would lend an unwilling ear to such a suggestion.

President Goeller declared that he believed the proceeding to cease fire protection service was just an effort to "force payment of the debt." Mr. van den Berg objected to the word "force."

Hearing is June 11

The hearing on the application is scheduled for June 11 at 10 a. m. before the commission.

Other cities affected by the utility's action include Massillon, Washington, C. H. and Marysville. The total amount owed the utility for fire protection is in the neighborhood of $200,000, the company president disclosed. Massillon owes more than $100,000.

The meat of the petition is found in the fourth paragraph of the application in the utilities commission. It reads:

"If your petitioner be relieved of the necessity of furnishing water service for fire protection for said municipalities it will be enabled to reduce the pumping service from 24 hours per day to approximately eight hours per day and thereby greatly reduce its operating expense."

Just when the water officials and council as a whole will meet is not certain.

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Nau, 944 S. Pickaway-st., announce the birth of a daughter, Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Nau's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Noggle, 344 Walnut-st. Mrs. Nau was Miss Agnes Noggle before her marriage.

COLLECTION DAY

The Herald carriers will make their regular collections tomorrow. Be ready for them. Prompt payment insures efficient service.

ASSUME OBLIGATIONS FOR CHURCH

Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood to Finish Projects; Program Entertaining

The meeting of Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood held in the parish house Thursday evening, was replete with interest.

During the business session, the revised constitution and by-laws were given the third and final reading and were adopted as revised.

The Brotherhood again followed its usual custom of financing the vacation Bible school that will be started soon after the closing of the city schools.

The matter of constructing new cement side walks in front of parish house, church and parsonage was presented by E. C. Ebert, and after some discussion, the brotherhood took action to assume cost and construction. Pres. Harry Bartholomew appointed a committee to take charge of the work; the committee consisting of Mason Klingensmith, chairman, Hillard Gehres, E. E. Wolf, E. C. Ebert and M. A. Seisenbrenner.

Donations Taken

Cash and labor donations were taken at the close of the meeting and the work of construction will soon be started. During the past three years the brotherhood has been responsible for much of the up-keep of the church property, having been responsible for painting parsonage, church and parish house and doing many other needed repairs.

After the busy business session, C. G. Chalfin and his committee of eight refreshed the members with a service of baked ham and cheese sandwiches, sweet pickles and coffee.

G. J. Lampl in charge of the entertainment next introduced his Fred Allen radio programs. C. A. Leist as announcer created much amusement in announcing the advertisements of various local businesses and professional men.

A deviation from the usual procedure was in introducing Charles

L. Mack as Fred Allen No. 1 and Carl C. Leist as his shadow.

Mr. Mack well played his part and was responsible for the Town Hall News. Carl Leist well played the part of Portland and Ervin F. Leist at Portland's brother looked and acted the part as only he alone could act it.

Elzie Radcliffe was next introduced as the guest vocalist, singing "O Little Mother of Mine", responding to a liberal encore by rendering "The Last Round-Up."

The amateur night weekly feature of the program was next introduced; and after much jest on the part of Fred Allen, L. V. Martin was first named, and rendered two violin solos: "Golden Slippers" and "Lop Eared Mule". Carl Leist playing the piano accompaniment.

Frank Palm's stunt on the program went "haywire," owing to the fact that his co-worker, a dashund borrowed from "Briar Town" made a mad dash, taking with him his leash and a greater part of the rear screen door of the parish house. Mr. Palm got the "gong" early in the game.

Mack Given Gong

Charles L. Mack was the next amateur performer presented, playing bones and jews-harp. He, too, got the "gong".

Carl C. Leist gave a musical reading entitled "The Usual Way", delighting the audience.

Mr. Radcliffe was again presented and sang "Play to Me Gypsy".

James Wallington's part in the entertainment was ably handled by Cyril H. Palm. The Johns—"Nashville" applausemeter was quite uncertain as to results, running backward on numerous occasions. Up on the final try-out the first prize was awarded to L. V. Martin, the second going to Carl C. Leist.

The program was brought to a fitting close by the entire company singing "Smiles".

The next regular session will be held on Thursday evening, June 6th with C. C. Schwarz as program chairman, his company being all members whose names begin with letters "S" to "Z" inclusive.

Frank H. Palm will act as chairman of the lunch committee.

Commercial vegetable growers claim good plants are too important a part of their business to trust to someone else. "Growing Vegetable Plants" is the title of an agricultural extension bulletin that can be secured from county agents' offices.

Mothers' Day Honors for Zoo Keeper

Twenty-Five Hundred Animals Are Woman's Charges—and She Tames the Wildest With Kindness Where Others Fail

Mrs. Belle Benchley, San Diego zoo keeper.

Mrs. Benchley kissing Mickey Tapir.

Six helpers, including a chimpanzee, fought a ferocious chimpanzee that escaped from the zoo until Mrs. Benchley took the frightened beast by the hand and led it back to its cage.

By ORE: ORNOLD
Central Press Correspondent

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—Mother's day honors for one of the strangest "mothers" in all America will be paid here this year to Mrs. Belle Benchley. This year she rounds out a full decade of "mothering" 2,500 wild and often dangerous animals—the only woman zoo keeper in the world. She bosses the San Diego zoo.

If the dumb beasts themselves could voice their sentiments, Mother Benchley would be honored indeed. She has proved that kindness and gentleness in dealing with "wild" animals brings response in kind. Mrs. Benchley can do with her wildest "children" what none of her two dozen or so male assistants can do.

Six of her helpers once fought a ferocious chimpanzee that had escaped from her municipal zoo, wounding clubs for nearly half an hour. Mother Benchley saw it, and came a-trotting. "Tck-tck-tck!" she clucked a reprimand at the men, then took the snarling, frightened beast by the hand and led it back into its cage as if it were a little child.

During the past winter, which has been marked by some cold snaps and damp spells, some of Mother Benchley's children required special attention. As in any family, sore throats and other ailments develop. But mother knows what to do.

Speed, the great Galapagos tortoise who was a youngster back in the days of George Washington and before, once became ill with a sore throat. Mother rubbed his wrinkled old adam's apple with ointment, gave him a dose of castor oil, and he recovered. Harmless as a kitten, he follows Mother Benchley around begging for tidbits of food.

Brings Baby Kangaroo Around

A baby kangaroo in her "zoo" became ill one time, and its own mother kicked it out of its marsupial pouch. It would surely have died. But Mrs. Benchley put it into a big clothes basket with blankets and a hot water bottle and nursed it back to health. Everywhere the zoo keeper went for nearly a month—down town shopping, visiting to neighbors, everywhere—she carried the Australian baby along in his hamper, just as she might have carried her own son.

Mickey tapir, a peculiar half-ton beast with a nose that suggests both elephant and hog, has Mother Benchley's personal attention every day. Mother Benchley cooks Mickey's breakfast (a bushel or so of potatoes, and some cereal) and serves it daily, allowing no assistant to aid her. She and Mickey are personal friends.

When Maggie and Jiggs, the loving, happy orang-outang honey-moosers in her zoo, become angry or upset, Mother Benchley steps into the cage to settle family quarrels.

All day every day it's something like that. The zebras, the penquins, the gorillas, the sea lions, the birds, the snakes, all have a problem that requires tact and strength. Mrs. Benchley supplies both, has done so admirably since stepping into the zoo keeper's job "temporarily" ten years ago. It is high time, the San Diegans say, that due Mothers' day honors be paid to her.

Three Young Men

Only time will tell whether the recent conference here of left-wingers carried the germ of a serious third party threat.

No one was more uncertain about the future political significance of their movement than the aggregation of Wisconsin Progressives, Farmer - Laborites, Farm Holidayers, Technocrats, Utopians and so forth who made up the gathering.

On two matters, however, they were agreed:

1. That there is a sound economic and political basis for a left-wing party.

2. That another meeting should be held to explore further the possibilities of organizing such a movement. The date and place for this second conference was fixed tentatively in the latter part of June in Chicago.

While in itself the meeting was of nebulous importance, there was one fact about it that was significant. That was that none of the recognized liberal leaders had a hand in its call or attended the deliberations.

Senators La Follette, Norris, Nye, Frazier, Shipstead, Wheeler were asked to join the movement, but all shied off. It was three young men, little known outside of their own circles, who were the "brains" behind the gathering. They are:

Representative Tom Amalie, the real organizer of the Wisconsin Progressive Party. After last year's smashing victory at the polls the two La Follette brothers were widely acclaimed for political daring. But it was the tall, blond, unspectacular former farm-hand who conceived and forced through their bolt from the Republican Party.

Alfred Bingham, tall, radical son of erudite Hiram Bingham, one-time ultra-conservative Senator from Connecticut. As editor of Common Sense, Alfred for more than a year has been vigorously agitating the coalescing of left-wing elements into an independent political party.

Representative Vito Marcantonio, short, dynamic inheritor of the seat once held by Mayor LaGuardia. Although nominally a Republican, Marcantonio has advanced economic and social views that place him far to the left of even the liberals.

MARYSVILLE, May 10.—James G. Heigler, 27, farmer, pleaded guilty to a grand jury indictment charging bigamy today and sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for one to seven years.

GREET PERSHING

Officers Named by Business Women; Miss Briner Honored

Miss Charlotte Phelps is the new president of the local Business and Professional Women's club succeeding Miss Charlotte McEwing. The election took place at the club's annual meeting, Thursday evening, in the club rooms following a 6:30 o'clock dinner.

Other officers named included: Mrs. William E. Fitzpatrick, vice president; Miss Mary Ebert, recording secretary; Miss Mary Howard, treasurer; and Miss Hilda Burns, corresponding secretary.

Delegates and alternates to the spring meeting of the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women to be held in Cincinnati May 24, 25 and 26 were also named at this time. Miss Phelps, Miss McEwing and Miss Clara Southward are delegates and alternates include Miss Elma Rains, Miss Mary Wilder and Mrs. H. G. Stevenson.

The dinner preceding the business session was a lovely affair. Bowls of spring flowers were attractive centerpieces for the properly appointed tables.

Miss Marie Briner, valedictorian of this year's graduating class of the high school, was guest of honor. One of the objects of the Business and Professional Women's club is to see that every girl receives at least a high school education, therefore the local club has followed the high school career of Miss Briner with great interest and in recognition of her attainment complimented her at the club dinner. Miss Briner's mother and sister, Mrs. Frank Briner and Miss Elma Briner were also guests of the club.

Camisole Top of Lace

The camisole top for a silk dress is a high fashion note. This tulip print has one of black silk lace. The matching silk sheer jacket makes this frock an attractive street ensemble. The veil is worn at the back of the hat.

WASHINGTON-TWP. SENIORS TO PRESENT PLAY MAY 14

The senior class of the Washington-twp school will present its play, "Two Days to Marry" by Walter Richardson, Tuesday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium. The production is being directed by A. Wendell Beyer.

Characters include Grover Dresbach as Simon P. Chase; Earl List as James J. Dare; Maynard Mats, Ruford B. Sawyer; Lucille Schreck, Emily Jane Pink; Martha Hitler, Sadie L. Boise; Olive Hartley, Imogene McShane; Russell Waidelich, Walter M. Blair.

The story is based on the will of the father of James J. Dare, which states that James must be married before he is 28 years old. The plot is strengthened by the action of Dare's butler and lawyer and is later complicated by the subplot, which has as its purpose the fooling of Walter B. Blair, who is Dare's uncle and administrator of the will.

Baccalaureate service will be held at the school at 8 p. m. Sunday, Rev. C. L. Thomas, of East Ringold, will preach the sermon.

LADIES' AID MEETS WITH MRS. KRIMMEL

The May meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Christ Lutheran church was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Albert Krimmel of Jackson-twp with her daughter, Miss Bertha, as assisting hostess. Fifty members and guests enjoyed the meeting which was opened with a devotional service led by Rev. G. L. Troutman, who also conducted the business session.

Three readings were given. The first by Mrs. Van Meter Hulse, the second, "When You Need a Friend" by Mrs. Marvin Rhoades, and "Mother Love" by Miss Ethel Kern.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by the hostesses.

JACKSON-TWP. ALUMNI BANQUET IS MAY 18

The annual Alumni banquet of the Jackson-twp high school will be held at the school, Saturday evening, May 18, at 8:15 o'clock. All members and friends are invited and urged to attend.

PATTERN 5443

With June weddings not so far off, the bride-to-be who wants distinctive monogramming will welcome these lovely alphabets. And so will the bride of many a year, for there are always linens to be marked. You can do the letters in cutwork, in satin stitch or in darning stitch. You can use white or one color, two shades of one color or black and a color. The letters are all simple to do conforming to the modern taste. Since there are three sized alphabets in the pattern they can be arranged to form striking monograms.

CASE NUMBER 2,796

It might be possible for the imaginative to attach a certain symbolic significance to the coming heavyweight championship bout in Long Island Bowl on June 13, when a product of the depression makes his bid for fame and fortune against a rather redoubtable opponent, Maxie Baer.

The challenger is listed on the records of the government relief agency of North Berge as Case Number 2,796, known to his wife and friends as James J. Braddock, a well-muscled young American, who has been in training with that grim and merciless opponent, Poverty.

Young Mr. Braddock, the misus and three children were having quite a difficult time of it. There was no job, no food for the family or money for the rent and a knockout was in sight until the relief agency intervened. For several months the young man wielded an axe and spade in the park, growing hard as nails and lean as a greyhound.

Then he entered the ring with Art Lasky, pounded out a decision and won the right to meet the current champion, the amiably vicious Mr. Baer, who has a high estimate of his own prowess which is not without substantial basis.

Somehow, if Braddock should win, those of us who are constantly on the lookout for signs and portents of better times would feel that the conquest, achieved by one of the depression's own young men, could properly be accepted as an omen of a new and a brighter day.

ONE IN EVERY 400

IF YOU would prolong your life, go inside the house and stay inside after 5 o'clock every afternoon. Particularly, do not venture to drive your automobile between the hours of 5 and midnight, and if you are not a driver, do not cross between those hours. Thus you will greatly increase your chances of living until 1936, or longer, for during 1935 one in every 100 motorists will be injured, one in every 400 pedestrians will be hurt, one in every 3500 motorists will be killed and one in every 8000 pedestrians will go to his grave. Half of these accidents will occur between the hours of 5 P. M. and midnight.

These figures appear from the surveys of automobile accidents made by the National Safety Council. They should be warning to every person who uses the streets, and particularly to every motorist. If any reader doubts their accuracy he may be convinced if he will check the long roll of accidents which will, inevitably, be printed in any Monday morning newspaper. Holiday week-ends are notorious for their accidents on the highways.

One in every 400 automobiles on the roads this week-end will be involved in an accident. It is no longer a question of how many, but rather it has become a question of which one.

LLOYD'S ON WAR

OUT of the welter of fact and theory, information and misinformation about the possibility of an early war in Europe there has emerged one certainty: There will be no war within a twelve-month. How do we know so much? We don't; we take our cue from Lloyd's, the English insurance agency which will insure anybody against anything, and it has offered odds of twenty to one against conflict within the year, and that settles it.

Moreover, but less important, the view reflected in the bet is that of observers in general. They know that Germany, regarded as the present-day menace to peace, is far from ready for hostilities. It is one thing to put 500,000 young men in uniform; it is another to build up an adequate force of the vast variety of material things needed in the prosecution of war on a modern scale. Germany does not yet possess such supplies. Nor is she likely to go to war at a time when the rest of Europe is in a state of approaching harmony among nations. So if Germany are again drinking toasts to Der Tag, it is a day which to a moral certainty will not fall within the coming year.

Getting acquainted with another person isn't so difficult. You just get married and begin.

Love is the only thing that can make you feel worse and get you less sympathy than a bad cold.

The final test of personality is to make the peddler believe you mean "no" without making him mad.

The critic who declares that women's hats couldn't possibly be funnier than they are at the present time has either forgotten what they looked like twenty years ago or else never knew.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

County Treasurer Thomas Bar, 57, died at his home in Tilton. He had served only four months of his first term as treasurer.

Scio-twp outside of Commercial Point and the Orient Institute for the feeble minded, had a population of 1,371, according to census reports. In the enumeration there were 106 farms listed.

The annual mothers' and daughters' banquet, sponsored by the young women's Bible class, was held at the M. E. Church with 75 in attendance. Mrs. E. I. Gephart, class president, was in charge of the program.

15 YEARS AGO

Mrs. Sarah Lillian Thorne, 87, died at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Denny Pickens, the effects of a fall at her home a week previous. She was a native of Deseret-twp.

Interesting and instructive in the past. Page 1

GYPSY GIRL

THE STORY OF AN IMPASSIONED ROMANCE

CHAPTER 58

THE GIRL, standing in the lobby staring around her as if she had never seen it before. She fingered the soft silken covering of one of the chairs. She buried her feet in the deep nap of the rug. She stared at the dimly lighted oil paintings on the wall, at each sign of luxury in the room, and she thought came to her how many times she had rushed through to her limousine with never a glance at the beauty of the furnishings of this place. Exclusives, expensive apartments, with hers the most expensive, the penthouse on the top—and she sighed.

Memories flooded over her. It was right after she had become star of the Folies that Stewart had brought her here. Star of the Folies, and suddenly it came to her what she was doing—Lorraine! In heaven, tonight, tonight when it was morning already, the curtain would go up without her. Ah, no—they couldn't do that! The Folies without the gypsy dancer? No, not was she had to be thinking of running away and leaving it all. Applause. The house filled to overflowing. Hands clapping, recalling her time and time again to bow. Why, this was the thing she had worked so hard for! This was the thing she had schemed and prayed for now she was giving it up because she was tired and lonesome. Little fool! Little fool! She couldn't do that with never a thought. Why, they couldn't do that show without her. What would the Folies be without the gypsy dancer of Broadway? Nothing, nothing at all. Then, unbidden, she saw again the look upon the face of her understudy that night she had been late, and she remembered how impatiently she herself had stood in the wings watching L'Vile and waiting for her chance. That same look of hunger, of impatience, of frustration upon this girl's face. Ah, now give her her chance! Give her her chance! And a slow smile crossed the gypsy's face. "Tonight, little one, you shall take my place!" and a laugh came to her throat, but it was one of contempt. "Bah! No one can ever take my place—not the Gypsy Consuelo!" and she straightened her shoulders and flung up her head with arrogance.

"Quick, baby, we haven't a minute to lose if we want to catch that train." Doug grabbed her arm and with his other hand picked up the bundle.

Together the two of them raced out the door and across the walk to the cab. "Pennsylvania station, and make it snappy," ordered Doug breathlessly, as the two got in and slammed the door behind them. "What a tough old guy he was. Luckily he knew me. You'd think I was a thief," he chuckled. "Baby, it cost me your room and best diamond wrist watch to get the loan of a measly two hundred dollars out of the old geezer. Say, I bought that very watch at Tiffany's on Stewart's account for seven fifty, and the old mutt thinks he's been cheated and only forced over the two hundred on account of Stewart." He yelled: "Hurry up!" to the driver and squeezed Consuelo's arm. "Gosh, I'm going to miss you. You know, baby, I think I ought to come along. Listen, I'm not so sure about this probable beating episode and leaving it all. Applause. The house filled to overflowing. Hands clapping, recalling her time and time again to bow. Why, this was the thing she had worked so hard for! This was the thing she had schemed and prayed for now she was giving it up because she was tired and lonesome. Little fool! Little fool! "Pennsylvania station, and make it snappy," ordered Doug breathlessly, as the two got in and slammed the door behind them. "What a tough old guy he was. Luckily he knew me. You'd think I was a thief," he chuckled. "Baby, it cost me your room and best diamond wrist watch to get the loan of a measly two hundred dollars out of the old geezer. Say, I bought that very watch at Tiffany's on Stewart's account for seven fifty, and the old mutt thinks he's been cheated and only forced over the two hundred on account of Stewart." He yelled: "Hurry up!" to the driver and squeezed Consuelo's arm. "Gosh, I'm going to miss you. You know, baby, I think I ought to come along. Listen, I'm not so sure about this probable beating episode and leaving it all. Applause. The house filled to overflowing. Hands clapping, recalling her time and time again to bow. Why, this was the thing she had worked so hard for! This was the thing she had schemed and prayed for now she was giving it up because she was tired and lonesome. Little fool! Little fool! She couldn't do that with never a thought. Why, they couldn't do that show without her. What would the Folies be without the gypsy dancer of Broadway? Nothing, nothing at all. Then, unbidden, she saw again the look upon the face of her understudy that night she had been late, and she remembered how impatiently she herself had stood in the wings watching L'Vile and waiting for her chance. That same look of hunger, of impatience, of frustration upon this girl's face. Ah, now give her her chance! Give her her chance! And a slow smile crossed the gypsy's face. "Tonight, little one, you shall take my place!" and a laugh came to her throat, but it was one of contempt. "Bah! No one can ever take my place—not the Gypsy Consuelo!" and she straightened her shoulders and flung up her head with arrogance.

"Quick, baby, we haven't a minute to lose if we want to catch that train." Doug grabbed her arm and with his other hand picked up the bundle. "Pennsylvania station, and make it snappy," ordered Doug breathlessly, as the two got in and slammed the door behind them. "What a tough old guy he was. Luckily he knew me. # Pecan Pie Featured This Week By Mrs. Thurn; Other Requested Recipes

Recipes Suitable for Spring Menus, for Family and Entertaining; Table Cookery Emphasized For Time Saving Meals

Dear Friends in Circleville:

When the request came in for a pecan pie recipe, I realized I was letting myself in for another deluge of pie letters similar to the storm which followed the shoofly recipe. For pecan pie that favorite of certain parts of the south, may be made by several different "rules" and in each case is delicious, and is, in each case, certainly pecan pie.

This recipe is one used in Texas, and I think delicious. Make as a one crust pie. Use one and one half teaspoons flour; four tablespoons sugar; one eighth teaspoon salt; two eggs; two cups scalded milk; one-half teaspoon vanilla; one cup pecan halves; pastry to make one shell. Mix flour, sugar, salt, and the beaten eggs together. Add scalded milk and at the time of pouring into the pie shell, add the nuts. Line a pie pan with your best pastry, and pinch the edge with the fingers. Pour in the custard mixture and bake in a hot oven 425 degrees, for ten minutes. Then reduce the heat to slow, 300 degrees F., and bake twenty minutes more, or until the custard is firm. When it is done a silver knife inserted in it will come out clean. Some cooks like a meringue on this, others prefer it plain.

Ham Croquettes

Another request is for ham croquettes. Try making them very small, stick a wooden pick in each and serve on a salad plate, or as part of a canape tray, or as a garnish for a first course appetizer. Or if made larger and served as an entree or main course, dress with cream sauce or gravy.

Two cups finely ground boiled or roast ham; two cups mashed potatoes; well beaten yolks three eggs; two tablespoons cream; one eighth teaspoon cayenne.

Blend all ingredients together, adding more cream if necessary for a smooth, but firm mixture. Shape roll in crumbs, beat on eggs white, then crumbs, and fry in deep hot fat. If the beaten egg whites are added to this recipe, and the croquettes shaped as small balls, you have ham puffs, delicious as a luncheon dish.

Cheese Pan Cakes

If you have one of the handy electrical griddles, or even a large chafing dish or grill, these delicious luncheon pancakes may be made right at the table.

Two cups flour; two teaspoons baking powder; one and one third cups milk; one teaspoon salt; two eggs; two tablespoons butter; six tablespoons grated American or Parmesan cheese.

Beat the eggs and milk together then add the flour, baking powder and salt, all sifted together. Add melted butter and cheese last. Have the griddle or pan hot, with a little melted fat in it. Use a large spoon to drop the batter. Do not make too small or too thick. When baked on each side, sprinkle with more grated cheese and small dabs of butter, roll and serve at once.

Chafing Dish Spaghetti

Three small sausages; one onion; two cups co-densed tomato soup; two cups cooked, seasoned spaghetti. Split the sausages lengthwise and cut in small pieces then fry in the chafing dish or grill until brown. Move them to one side of the pan, and add the chopped onion, brown it for five minutes stirring frequently. Then add the tomato soup, mix and heat thoroughly. Add spaghetti and mix until well coated with the hot sauce and heated through. Serve at once.

Sardines in Anchovy Sauce

Buy very large, boneless sardines for this recipe. Do not drain off all the oil, but use at least one tablespoon for making the sauce; One tablespoon flour; one cup brown stock or bouillon; one teaspoon anchovy paste; one fourth teaspoon salt; the same of pepper. Heat the oil, stir in the flour to smoothness, then add the stock and anchovy paste. Stir till smooth and very hot. Season and lay in the sardines. When thoroughly hot, serve on toast. Men like this as a late supper dish.

Jumbled Eggs

Three large mushrooms (if fresh ones, saute them first in a little butter; if canned, use four or five) minced fine; one tablespoon rich gravy or stock or bouillon; one tablespoon butter; one fourth teaspoon pepper; one fourth teaspoon salt; six eggs. Heat the mushrooms, seasonings, butter and stock together until well blended; add six well beaten eggs and scramble well with the mushrooms. Turn out as soon as the eggs are scrambled on toast. Delicious.

MRS. GEORGE THURN.

Toad Lives Double Life

An extraordinary feature of the life cycle of the common toad revealed by an English scientist. Is that every male toad is a potential female. Throughout its life, according to this authority, the male toad has within it, lying dormant, all the apparatus for egg production. This, he says, is capable of being called into activity through the performance of an operation, and when such a measure is taken the progeny of the transformed toads are all males.

Make HAPPINESS a Habit

Wouldn't you like to step up the amount of enjoyment you get from life? The knack of keeping fit is largely a matter of regular habits. Your happiness may be hampered by common constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in your meals.

Did you know that your grocer has a natural cereal food which corrects this condition? Kellogg's All-Bran, eaten regularly, supplies generous "bulk." Also vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in All-Bran is gentle—and safe for normal individuals. More effective than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables, as it does not break down within the body.

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this natural food much better than taking patent medicines? Serve it as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. Get Kellogg's All-Bran at your grocer. It contains much more "bulk" than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Keep on the Sunny Side of Life

Birthday Cakes Add Charm To The Anniversary Occasion

What charm has a birthday if there is no birthday cake? Grown-ups and children alike are stirred by the sight of a cake aglow with flaming candles.

For a club anniversary, or a personal birthday, here is a very clever way to symbolize the passing of years. Each year bearing the service for the individual may be decorated with a large, snowy marshmallow in which a tiny colored candle claims the center. It's a gay ceremony when the candles are lighted. The color scheme possibilities are great because the candles can be obtained in many hues.

The large, center-of-attraction cakes must be unusually delicious to live up to their tradition. Here are two recipes that ought to meet the requirements:

Sponge Cake Dainty

3 eggs
1/2 C. sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 C. prepared cake flour
1/4 tsp. salt

Separate eggs and beat whites stiff, but not dry. Gradually add sugar, beating steadily. Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored, and add to egg white mixture. Then add vanilla. Sift flour, measure, and sift again with salt. Fold gently into egg mixture. Pour into an ungreased, paper-lined pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 25 to 30 minutes. This cake is small, making only 6 servings. A butter cream frosting is suitable for it.

Princess Cake

1/2 C. butter
1 1/2 C. sugar
3 eggs
2 1/4 C. prepared cake flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 C. milk
1 tsp. vanilla

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream well together. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Sift flour, measure and sift again, with baking powder and salt. Add alternately to creamed mixture with milk to which has been added the vanilla. Bake in 2 ten inch layers in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Makes 12 servings. When cool, the cake may be frosted with this icing:

1 1/2 C. sugar
3 Tbsp. white cream
1/2 C. water
2 egg whites
1 tsp. vanilla

Boil sugar, syrup and water to 238 degrees, or until it will spin a thread when dropped from a spoon. Pour slowly over stiffly beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Beat until of a consistency to spread. Spread thickly between the layers and over the top and sides of the cake, reserving one cup of the frosting for decorating. To this add a few drops of pink vegetable coloring. Make little swirls on the top of the cake where the candles are to be put and alternating swirls on the sides of the cake to get the effect of a white frosting with all the ridges edged with a delicate pink. An extra fluting of pink may be put around the base of the cake after it is placed on the serving plate to give a more finished appearance.

Edison's Bug Killer

When Thomas Edison was a boy he invented an electrical apparatus for killing bugs. He was employed in the Western Union office in Boston, where he went in 1895. This office had formerly been occupied by a restaurant and it was infested with swarms of cockroaches. They became such a nuisance that Edison finally placed on the wall beside his table two strips of tinfoil. He connected one strip with the positive pole of the battery that furnished the current to the telegraph wires and the other strip to the negative pole. Thus a cockroach coming in contact with both strips was immediately annihilated.

Wife Preservers

If you are traveling and wish to carry Lath salts with you, don't attempt to take them in their glass container. It is too heavy. Pour enough to last you for the trip into a clean salt or sugar bag, and stow it among your underwear. The salt will help perfume the clothing and also be ready for your bath.

ATLANTA SCHOOL

Music Contests Interesting.

On Friday, April 26 the third and fourth grades had a music contest. The following pupils ranked 1st and 2nd respectively in the events listed.

Third grade girls solo: Bowler and Mary Folrod. Fourth grade girls solo: Kelly and Mary Kearns. Third grade boys solo: Cain and Charles Downing. Fourth grade boys solo: Turner and Forest Nixon. In the duet Ruth Kelly and Mary Folrod won first and George Hott and Charles Downing won second. The girls' chorus was judged better than the boys.

In a similar contest held in the fifth and sixth grades, Marilyn Campbell, Beulah Self, Dean Stumrock, Paul Adams, Martha Hamman, Stella Skinner, Judson Parks, Paul Mills and Jean Cough-ton won honors.

James O'Neil and Jess Funk won the honors on poems.

Next Monday, Miss Ollie Ater, the music instructor, will sponsor a final contest, with all preliminary winners participating. It is hoped that parents and patrons will come and enjoy this program. Last Saturday Lawrence Hunter, Allen Combs and John Peck accompanied by Mrs. Combs, traveled to Columbus to take part in the District State Championship Tests at Ohio State University. During the afternoon they were the guests of the university at the baseball game, the polo game and football game. At night they attended the Notre Dame-Ohio State track meet. John Peck was awarded a state scholarship certificate by the State Department of Education. Literary Contest Ends. Last Monday the final program of the literary contest was held. The judges awarded the victory to Section B.

AMATEUR CARD ENDED BY RAIN HELD TONIGHT

Aronson Announces All Boys Ready for Friday Evening Bouts Starting at 8:30

Norman Aronson's going to get a job as a professional rain maker. His fight card last week was postponed because of rain and last night old Jupiter Pluvius again knocked the props from under Aronson's amateur card.

Nevertheless the promoter is going on and has announced the card in its entirety will be staged this evening at the regular time, 8:30 o'clock.

The bouts are:
Main go: Willie Gaines, 151 pounds, versus Salty Toles, 150 pounds.

Semi-final: Merle Davis, 134 pounds, versus Chuck Jackson, 137 pounds.

Preliminary: Eddie Bird, 124 pounds, versus Harold Brown, 122 pounds.

Curtain-raiser: Emerson Sayre, 100 pounds, versus James Emerine, 100 pounds.

All the fighters are in good condition for their three rounds and promise an interesting evening.

Cum Robinson will be the third man in the ring with Bill Dickens as the announcer.

Scippo park, four mile south of the city on Route 23, is the scene and if the hour doesn't bring a cloudburst the fight will go on with a good crowd expected to wend its way into the park.

SCHROEDER NEW COACH AT LOGAN

LOGAN, May 10.—Carl "Ducky" Schroeder, former Wittenberg college star, has accepted a contract to coach Logan high school athletic teams succeeding John "Red" Longley, who has gone to Ashland.

Schroeder has been a successful coach at Newcomerstown, Tuscarawas co.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

WAS TUBBY'S JOB
Few people know that had he kept his health George "Tubby" Vierchome would have been offered the coaching job at Circleville high school this year—Tubby's one of the most popular persons to ever graduate from the local school—He is making a fine recovery in the Starko sanatorium, Canton—Incidentally, Elmer Reger's Orville team defeated Vierchome's Dalton 11 last fall, 73 to 6.

TREGO SCORES 17
Ellsworth Trego, Commercial Point contribution to Ohio collegiate activities, won no less than 17 points in four events in the Capital university meet with Kenyon—He captured the broad jump and 100-yard dash, was tied for first in the high jump and placed second in the 220-yard dash.

SHIRES' TEAM FIRST
Art Shires, former Chicago and Columbus first sacker, has his Harrisburg club in first place in the N.Y.P. league—Art's playing first base himself—Luke Sewell, veteran catcher, is receiving a lot of the credit for the fine showing the Chicago White Sox are making in the American league—Luke came from Washington after being with a couple of other clubs—George Washington, who graduated to the Sox from Indianapolis, is a tied the best color player on the club; other members have conceded him this honor.

FIVE MEN HELP
Five new men have helped the Rochester Red Wings—They are Johnny Mize, Gene Moore, Dick Ward, Johnny Michaels and Sparky Adams, the veteran Tafelider signed as a free agent.

ODDS DOWN TO 50-1
Jack Doyle, Gotham betting commission, quoted Cincinnati at 100 to 1 when the season opened but so much money has appeared at that price that the odds have been cut to 50 to 1—The Cardinals and Indians are favorites in Doyle's book.

RED BIRD STREAK ENDED BY KLINGER

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 10.—The Columbus Red Birds today snapped a seven-game losing streak with a vengeance by routing the Kansas City Blues 9 to 1.

For the last seven games, the Birds have been "down-and-out" but yesterday they cracked wide open in the seventh inning and chalked up seven runs. They pounded two "mighty Blue" hurlers for 16 hits.

PITCHER IS HERO

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 10.—Pitcher Babe Hosler today was the hero of a 3 to 2 victory scored by the Indiana university baseball team over Purdue.

Hosler, a sophomore, pitched a three hit game, striking out eleven Boller-makers. In the eleventh inning he rolled out a bunt with the bases loaded to bring in the winning run.

INDIANS GAIN LEAGUE LEAD

Harder Blanks Yankees In Ab-breviated Contest; Ferrell Beats Chicago

CLEVELAND, May 10.—Arled by Wesley Ferrell, former Cleveland ace now hurling for the Boston Red Sox, and a sudden series of thunderstorms, the Cleveland Indians today were back in the American league lead.

The Tribe chalked up its second straight shutout yesterday by handing the New York Yankees a 5 to 0 trimming at League park at Boston, Ferrell and the Red Sox did their bit by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 1, dropping them into second place.

Harder gave the Ruthless Yankees only three singles in five innings while fanning six of them. The Indians were to try to make it two straight over the Yanks today behind the pitching of Oral Hildebrand, while Vito Tamulis, young southpaw, was to attempt to put New York back in the win column.

BOSTON, May 10.—A new spirit pervaded the defeat ridden Boston Braves today after the appearance of the Braves lineup for the first time in over a year of plucky Second Baseman Walter "Rabbit" Maraville, whose leg was broken a year ago. Although the Braves were humbled by the Chicago Cubs, 5-1, Maraville, inserted when Les Mallon was put out of the game by Umpire Sears, laid down a sacrifice and singled in two trips to the plate and handled perfectly two fielding chances, one of his famous "vest pocket" catch method.
